DANZIG DEMAND STANDS

Fuehrer Ends Naval Treaty
With Britain, Abrogates
Polish Agreement

BERLIN, April 28—In a bristling speech denouncing the Anglo-German naval treaty and his non-aggression pact with Poland, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler today sarcastically rejected President Roosevelt's demand for a European peace guarantee but at the same time disclaimed any intention of war.

Addressing the Reichstag on the twentieth anniversary of the day that German delegates left Berlin to sign their names to the "shameful" treaty of Versailles, the Fuehrer insisted he had no territorial designs on France or any other non-German nation, but once again voiced demand for return of the Reich's war-lost colonies.

In the course of his long speech to his Nazi deputies, which held the civilized world under unprecedented tension for more than two hours, the Fuehrer time and again expressed his unequivocal wish for peace but served notice on the world that these are the tenets of German policy.

1—Danzig must be allowed to return to the Reich.

2—The German-Polish non-aggression treaty has been rendered invalid by Poland's rejection of Germany's offer for a peaceful settlement of the corridor problem and by her participation in Britain's program of "encirclement."

3—The Anglo-German naval treaty, restricting the Reich to 35 percent of England's naval power, has ceased to exist because of Britain's insistence on regarding Germany as a potential enemy.

4—Germany will make known her policy toward any individual countries that ask for it, but the Reich's only answer to Mr. Roosevelt is that there is now a "Monroe Doctrine" for Central Europe just as in the Americas.

5—Germany never again will enter a conference room unarmed.

The German nation is dedicated to peace, the Fuehrer said, but should war come "German resistance will be such that 1914 would be as nothing compared to it."

Saar Recalled

The Saar plebiscite, Hitler said, solved for all time all territorial problems between France and Germany and there are no German claims on England save those regarding colonies. He emphasized the desirability of continued collaboration with the British Empire, but threw the onus for present strained relations on London.

"I have never made any demands that would interfere with Great Britain's interests," he said. "I have therefore resolved to send a communication to this effect to Britain."

The agreement, signed in 1935, gave Germany a 35 percent naval ratio to that of Britain, but allowed the Reich 45 percent in submarines.

The Polish problem, Hitler said, "can be settled without recourse to war."

Poland Needs Outlet

Poland, he admitted, "must have an outlet to the sea."

"In the interest of European as well as world peace," he said, "I am doing all in my power to settle the problem of the Polish Corridor peacefully."

"Just as Poland needs a corridor to the sea, Germany needs a pathway to its possessions. A German pathway to its own territory would have no military significance."

"I have explained our position to Poland, but Poland has rejected our suggestions. I have offered Poland a pact for 25 years of peace, but this Poland has rejected."

Gotham His Goal

VLADIMIR KOKKINAKI

MOSCOW, April 28—Vladimir Kokkinaki, Soviet long-distance flying ace, was winging toward the Atlantic ocean today on an attempted non-stop westward flight of some 4,600 miles from Moscow to New York. Purpose of the flight is to signalize Soviet Russian participation in the New York World's Fair, which opens Sunday. Accompanied by Navigator Mikhail Gordinenko, Kokkinaki lifted his large twin-engine monoplane, "Moscow" from the runway at the Shokhova military airfield at 4:19 a. m. (8:19 p. m. Thursday, Circleville time). Col. Kokkinaki and Major Gordinenko planned to reach Floyd Bennett airport in New York within 25 hours of the take-off.

STORY OF PLEA FOR TALK WITH IL DUCE DENIED

HYDE PARK, N. Y., April 28—President Roosevelt today issued a formal denial of a Washington dispatch that he had sounded out Premier Mussolini and, through him, Reichsfuehrer Hitler on a plan to meet the President either at sea, or near some neutral island, and that the dictators had rejected the suggestion.

The story, appearing under the byline of Arthur Krock, drew from the President the following statement:

"I have read the Krock story in the New York Times. It is not true, but otherwise it is interesting and well written."

The President's statement was given out by William B. Hassett, acting press secretary, to reporters at Poughkeepsie.

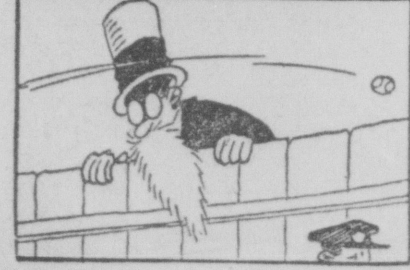

STRANGE OCEAN CRAFT VIEWED OFF ST. JOHN'S

ST. JOHN, N. B., April 28—Quick precautions were expected to be ordered today to block the harbor of St. John against a mysterious and as yet unidentified submarine reported lurking in nearby waters.

Victor Nickerson, 26, a fisherman of Spectacle Island, N. S., reported he saw a submarine maneuvering in the waters 10 miles from Yarmouth, N. S., last Thursday. Yarmouth is less than 100 miles from the port of St. John.

Nickerson's report was one of many received in the last several weeks concerning the mysterious craft which all identified as a submarine.

CONGRESSMEN BELIEVE HITLER'S ADDRESS THREATENS TROUBLE UNLESS GERMANY GETS ITS WAY

BODY OF PRISON GUARD FOUND IN SCIOTO RIVER

COLUMBUS, April 28—The body of an Ohio penitentiary guard, missing for the last two weeks, was found today floating in the Scioto river just south of the Main street bridge. Coroner E. E. Smith returned a verdict of suicide.

The guard, Omar J. Seibert, 42, was thought to be the man seen to jump from the bridge a fortnight ago. No reason was given for the act.

60-DAY RELIEF FIGHT CERTAIN

President's Fund Request Opens Way For Bitter Congressional Tilt

WASHINGTON, April 28—President Roosevelt's proposal for a $1,723,000,000 relief program for the next fiscal year starting July 1 today touched off a congressional battle which is expected to continue for 60 days and split party lines.

Congressional leaders foresaw a struggle over these issues—the amount proposed for W.P.A., demands for return of relief administration to states and cities, a formula for allocating relief funds and a shake-up in relief administration.

The amount proposed for W.P.A.—which calls for a reduction of 800,000 in the relief rolls in the next few months—satisfied economy advocates but aroused widespread protests from sponsors of liberal relief outlays.

GERMAN TROOPS ON MOVE NEAR BELGIUM ARE A

LONDON, April 28—Constant German troop and artillery movements have been observed in the Cologne district near the Belgian and Netherlands frontiers during the last few days, the London Daily Telegraph reported from Cologne today.

The paper said the military concentrations were believed particularly strong near the Belgian frontier opposite the Belgian German-populated provinces of Eupen and Malmédy.

German officials at Cologne were quoted as saying the troop movements were part of the "normal disposition of Rhineland garrisons."

MARKET CLIMBS AFTER HITLER'S REPLY TO F. D. R.

NEW YORK, April 28—The stock market advanced today following delivery of Chancellor Hitler's speech to the Reichstag.

Taking a cue from an improvement in foreign markets before the opening here, a flurry of buying came into the list at the start. Leaders rose $1 a share and more, while a few individual issues gained more than $2.

Trading quieted down later and part of the gains were cut as Wall street awaited reactions to the German reply to President Roosevelt's peace move.

DIRECTOR'S SON NAMED

COLUMBUS, April 28—Robert Beightler, Jr., son of State Highway Director Robert S. Beightler, has been named for appointment to the U. S. military Academy at West Point, it was announced today. The appointment was in honor of young Beightler's high scholastic and athletic standing at Greenbrier Military Academy.

"Solemn Promise" Against Western Hemisphere Aggression Scored

WASHINGTON, April 28—hardy members of congress arose at 5:30 o'clock this morning to hear Adolf Hitler speak, and to a man they agreed the Reichsfuehrer's ringing words mean more trouble for Europe.

Unanimously, they agreed the German chancellor intends to carry out his program of aggression in Europe until he is stopped by force of arms or obtains his aims.

As one, they felt that Hitler's "solemn promise" he would not attack the Western Hemisphere was "for the present only."

They gathered in the studies of the National Broadcasting company to hear the address over the radio, and their close attention to the talk was interrupted frequently by terse comments. An involuntary outburst by Rep. Carlson (R) Kansas, was typical.

Conferences Rejected

"It's a declaration of war," he said as the German dictator rejected the conference table as a method of settling his troubles.

Three senators and seven representatives heard the Hitler address in the studios. They were Senators Capper (R) of Kansas, Lundeen (F-L) of Minnesota and Gillette (D) of Iowa, and Reps. Lea (D) of California, Carlson, Church (R) Illinois, Curtis (R) of Nebraska, Ferguson (D) of Oklahoma, Arnold (D) of Illinois, and Dingell (D) Michigan.

Comment of some of the members of congress came immediately after they heard the Hitler address. Other members commented shortly afterward, recording the first impact of the Reichsfuehrer on the American congress. The comments:

CAPPER: "The speech was discouraging from the standpoint of European peace, but after listening to Hitler's somewhat temperate reply to President Roosevelt, I am still of the opinion that Europe's troubles can be settled by peaceful methods. The speech reaches us as a warning against the war hysteria with which this country is seething, much of which is caused by propaganda from Europe."

"We can stay out of threatened European war if we act prudently, and we should do so."

Principals In Bizarre Mystery

Mrs. Helen Cassidy . . . murdered Charles Cassidy, Jr. . . . gave clue

ONE of the most bizarre murder plots ever related by police was unfolded at White Cloud, Mich., with the confession of Elton Cassidy that he strangled his brother's unwanted 20-year-old wife, Mrs. Helen Cassidy, and hanged her body from a stair railing to fake a suicide. Police claim Elton's brother Charles, husband of the dead woman and father of her four children, also admitted plotting with Elton and their mother, Mrs. Matilda Cassidy, 46, to remove Helen, whom they said had been a constant source of friction in the family. The victim had moved with her children to Big Rapids and filed a cross bill in reply to her husband's suit for divorce. Investigation into the woman's death was launched after Charles Cassidy, Jr., 4, prattled about a man fighting with his mother.

Triumph for McGuffey!

John D. Hummel, Who Learned His Spelling From Famous Reader, Wins Double "Bee" At Brotherhood Session

John D. Hummel, E. Mound street, who learned his spelling out of a McGuffey reader and who taught others from the same book, was the star performer Thursday evening when Trinity Lutheran Church Brotherhood conducted a spelling bee. The bee turned out to be a pair of them, because the words used by Monitor William M. Reid spelled down the competitors at such a rapid pace that the contest was ended long before the scheduled time. Hummel won both contests for the "Old Timers."

The words used in the competition were taken from the news columns and advertisements of The Daily Herald's editions of Monday and Tuesday.

Though Mr. Hummel won the first contest, the star of the competition was Harry Kern of Jackson township, the last survivor of the young man's side. When Kern was left alone by his colleagues five "Old Timers" remained against him, but he disposed of R. L. Brehmer, E. C. Ebert, H. H. Groce and Karl Herrmann before he finally succumbed to the ability of Mr. Hummel. Kern missed "indicted."

The second event found two of the "Old Timers" competing against each other. W. T. Walsh, W. Mound street, a new member of the club, was the last to remain up for the "Youngsters," but when he missed Mr. Hummel and H. H. Groce remained for the "Old Timers." Mr. Groce failed to spell "adjustable," putting an "i" where the last "a" should be.

On the teams were: "Old Timers," R. L. Brehmer, E. C. Ebert, H. H. Groce, K. J. Herrmann, George Himrod, John D. Hummel, C. A. Leist, E. Sensenbrenner, L. M. Mader and H. M. Crites. For the "Youngsters" were Charles Eitel, Luther Bower, Harry Kern, Charles Weldinger, Luther List, Charles Walters, the Rev. G. L. Troutman, Junior Bar-

NEXT GERMAN GRAB MAY BE AT POLE LAND

London Not Surprised By Der Fuehrer's Action Ending Naval Treaty, Regarded As Dead Since Wilhelmshaven

LONDON, April 28—Danzig and the Polish corridor probably will be the next objectives of German expansion, according to the initial deduction from Chancellor Hitler's speech drawn in London diplomatic circles today.

Germany's denunciation of the Anglo-German naval treaty, under which the Reich's fleet was restricted to 35 percent of Britain's, caused no surprise here.

Although Britain continues to insist that the pact cannot be unilaterally denounced, it was regarded as virtually dead anyway, as a result of Hitler's speech last month at Wilhelmshaven.

The coup de grace delivered to the treaty today will make scant tactical difference, in view of Britain's tremendous start in naval building, and the terrific burden a naval construction race would impose on Germany's economy.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and members of his "inner cabinet" examined highlights of the speech at a meeting in the House of Commons chambers. The meeting ostensibly was held to discuss the inscription bill, which last night won the approval of parliament.

Attack Expected

Hitler's bitter attack on President Roosevelt, and the general tone and substance of the Reichstag address fulfilled British expectations. However, there will be no official comment until its vast wordage is closely analyzed.

Well-informed quarters characterized it as "half defiant and half conciliatory," with the passages concerning Britain particularly noted and interpreted as a conciliatory approach.

Chamberlain's decision to institute military conscription in Britain was endorsed by the House of Commons by 376 to 145 last night.

WARSAW, April 28—Poland today proffered a compromise solution of the Danzig problem, involving joint German-Polish control of the "free city," but authoritative quarters said Poland flatly rejected outright Anschluss of Danzig with the Reich.

Chancellor Hitler's abrogation of the German-Polish treaty of friendship and non-aggression of 1934 caused no surprise, since the German press for some time has been referring openly to incompatibility of the pact with the newly-concluded Anglo-Polish reciprocal guarantees. The German press also for weeks has been publishing stories about alleged Polish outrages against the Germanic minority in Poland.

TWO FUGITIVES CAUGHT

Two 17-year-old youths, fugitives from the Orient institution, were lodged in the Circleville jail Thursday night and returned to the institution Friday. The youths were brought to the city jail by J. E. Townes, Baltimore & Ohio railroad detective.

Highlights of Fuehrer's Speech

By International News Service

"Return of the Saar territory settled once and for all all territorial problems between France and Germany."

"I strongly declare that all assertions being circulated referring in any way to an intended German attack or invasion on or in American territory are rank frauds and gross untruths."

"Germany will never again enter a conference unarmed. Every German negotiator will have behind him the united strength of the German nation, so help me God."

"War against Germany is taken for granted in that country (England). I most profoundly regret such developments, for the only claim I have ever made and shall continue to make on England is that for return of our colonies."

"Since England today . . . upholds the view that Germany should be opposed under all circumstances and confirms this by a policy of encirclement, the basis for existence of the Anglo-German naval treaty has been removed."

"Should the British government, however, wish to enter once more into negotiations with Germany on this problem, no one would be happier than I to be able to come to a clear, straight-forward understanding."

"I consider that the German Polish agreement no longer exists."

"The German government is prepared to give each state named (by President Roosevelt in his peace message) assurances of the sort desired on condition of absolute reciprocity, provided that the state wishes it itself and addresses to Germany a request for such assurance, together with appropriate proposals."

"I do not want to be an obstacle in the way of disarmament discussions at which Roosevelt intends to be present. I ask Roosevelt, however, to appeal to others first in view of the practical experience behind me."

"It is possible that some countries for ideological reasons believe that it would be a great service if you, Mr. Roosevelt, with your great influence would remove the barriers to free world trade, beginning in the United States first of all."

"It would be a noble act if Mr. Roosevelt would redeem Wilson's promises in the interests of improvement of the economic conditions of the world."

"Mr. Roosevelt, I fully understand that the vastness of your nation and the immense wealth of your country allows you to feel responsible for the history of the whole world and for the history of all nations."

"To create still closer relations among Germany, Italy and Japan is the constant aim of the German government. We regard existence and maintenance of the independence and freedom of these three great powers

He emphasized the desirability of continued collaboration with the British Empire, but threw the onus for present strained relations on London.

"I have never made any demands that would interfere with Great Britain's interests," the Fuehrer declared, but a moment later stated that he considered the German-Polish agreement of 1934 inoperative as a result of England's mutual aid pact with Warsaw.

"On the basis that the naval pact has been abrogated," he said, "I have therefore resolved to send a communication to this effect to Britain."

The agreement, signed in 1935, gave Germany a 35 percent naval ratio to that of Britain, but allowed the Reich 45 percent in submarines.

The Polish problem, Hitler said, "can be settled without recourse to war."

60-DAY RELIEF FIGHT CERTAIN

President's Fund Request Opens Way For Bitter Congressional Tilt

WASHINGTON, April 28 — President Roosevelt's proposal for a $1,723,000,000 relief program for the next fiscal year starting July 1 today touched off a congressional battle which is expected to continue for 60 days and split party lines.

Congressional leaders foresaw a struggle over these issues — the amount proposed for W.P.A., demands for return of relief administration to states and cities, a formula for allocating relief funds and a shake-up in relief administration.

The amount proposed for W.P.A., which calls for a reduction of 800,000 in the relief rolls in the next few months—satisfied economy advocates but aroused widespread protests from sponsors of liberal relief outlays.

Highlights of Fuehrer's Speech

By International News Service
"Return of the Saar territory settled once and for all territorial problems between France and Germany."

"I strongly declare that all assertions being circulated referring in any way to an intended German attack or invasion on or in American territory are rank frauds and gross untruths."

"Germany will never again enter a conference unarmed. Every German negotiator will have behind him the united strength of the German nation, so help me God."

"War against Germany is taken for granted in that country (England). I most profoundly regret such developments, for the only claim I have ever made and shall continue to make on England is that for return of our colonies."

"Since England today . . . upholds the view that Germany should be opposed under all circumstances and confirms this by a policy of encirclement, the basis for existence of the Anglo-German naval treaty has been removed."

"Should the British government, however, wish to enter once more into negotiations with Germany on this problem, no one would be happier than I to be able to come to a clear, straight-forward understanding."

"I consider that the German Polish agreement no longer exists."

London Not Surprised By Der Fuehrer's Action Ending Naval Treaty, Regarded As Dead Since Wilhelmshaven

LONDON, April 28—Danzig and the Polish corridor probably will be the next objectives of German expansion, according to the initial deduction from Chancellor Hitler's speech drawn in London diplomatic circles today.

Germany's denunciation of the Anglo-German naval treaty, under which the Reich's fleet was restricted to 35 percent of Britain's, caused no surprise here.

Although Britain continues to insist that the pact cannot be unilaterally denounced, it was regarded as virtually dead anyway, as a result of Hitler's speech last month at Wilhelmshaven.

The coup de grace delivered to the treaty today will make scant tactical difference, in view of Britain's tremendous start in naval building, and the terrific burden a naval construction race would impose on Germany's economy.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and members of his "inner cabinet" examined highlights of the speech at a meeting in the House of Commons chambers. The meeting ostensibly was held to discuss the conscription bill, which last night won the approval of parliament.

Attack Expected
Hitler's bitter attack on President Roosevelt, and the general tone and substance of the Reichstag address fulfilled British expectations. However, there will be no official comment until its vast wordage is closely analyzed.

Well-informed quarters characterized it as "half defiant and half conciliatory," with the passages concerning Britain particularly noted and interpreted as a conciliatory approach.

Chamberlain's decision to institute military conscription in Britain was endorsed by the House of Commons by 376 to 145 last night.

WARSAW, April 28 — Poland today proffered a compromise solution of the Danzig problem, involving joint German-Polish control of the "free city," but authoritative quarters said Poland flatly rejected outright Anschluss of Danzig with the Reich.

Chancellor Hitler's abrogation of the German-Polish treaty of friendship and non-aggression of 1934 caused no surprise, since the German press for some time has been referring openly to incompatibility of the pact with the newly-concluded Anglo-Polish reciprocal guarantees. The German press also for weeks has been publishing stories about alleged Polish outrages against the Germanic minority in Poland.

Great Fruit Crop Predicted for Ohio Unless Weather Conditions Interfere

COLUMBUS, April 28—Barring frosts or other unpredictable weather damage, prospects are good for an excellent crop of fruit in Ohio, according to F. H. Beach, extension horticulturist, Ohio State university, who says the apple bloom will be the heaviest in years.

Peaches in Lawrence county were injured by a frost on April 9 but most of the cherries, plums, and peaches are grown further north in the state so the damage to the total crop was slight. Heavy rains during April were favorable for the development of apple scab but many growers had applied one or two sprays before the rains became general.

Reports on the peach crop from other states reveal more frost damage than occurred in Ohio but prospects for the 1939 harvest are good enough to indicate a better than average yield and also for more peaches than were produced last year. There has been working on advertising campaigns to sell apples for two years and hopes to get more general support from growers in the state. Every fruit grower is

Cash Redemption of Sales Tax Stamps Begins May 1

Cash redemption of Ohio sales tax stamps, beginning May 1, will make $1,150,000 available for civic activities the coming year, according to proponents of the Redemption Plan.

This total is three percent of the sales tax collection in 1938 and will increase each year as the new statute functions to its fullest, it is pointed out.

Sales tax collections for 1938 ran $10,000,000 behind what they should aggregate each year, because of lax enforcement and business conditions, it is explained, so the new law, drafted by Senator Grant Ward, of Franklin and Pickaway counties, was designed to anchor in the minds of the retail customer a constant demand for the receipt, to which he is entitled for his payment of the existing tax on all purchases.

From this demand there will accrue a two-fold benefit:—

1—Increased sales tax collections, estimated at $3,000,000 to $6,000,000 each year, thereby aiding state agencies dependent upon tax revenue.

2—New sources of cash income for organizations constantly financing programs for the common good.

"Demand Sales Tax Stamps—They Now Have Cash Value" is the slogan for the campaign which will be conducted for a brief period prior to May 1, for the purpose of acquainting the public with the far-reaching benefits to be derived. A number of organizations already have designed their intention of tapping this new source of constant cash income, it is stated.

Redeemable Now

Tax receipts (popularly known as "stamps") will be redeemable at three percent of their face value, when presented to the Tax Commission of Ohio in amounts of $100 or more, under the new law.

To carry out the provisions of this statute, the Commission has changed the design and color of the stamps to be issued by retail dealers on and after May 1.

Procedure For Redemption

Procedure in presenting sales tax stamps for cash redemption is as follows:

1—Apply for the official form, on which to make the presentation, either in person or by mail, at the office of the Tax Commission of Ohio, Sales Tax Section, Redemption Division, 68 East Gay Street, Columbus.

2—Segregate all stamps, as to their face value, then fasten them together by clipping, tying or binding, according to their denomination.

3—Mail application blanks, properly filled out, together with stamps, carefully packaged, to the Tax Commission of Ohio, Columbus, or deposit them at other stations, which may be designated by the commission, from time to time.

Qualifications For Redemption
Organizations and individuals, entitled to apply for redemption, fall into two classifications:—

1—Health, welfare, charitable, religious, educational, fraternal and patriotic organizations, including auxiliaries, branches and committees of these organizations, in existence on December 31, 1938, and the central and executive committees of political parties.

2—Any individual, corporation, partnership or association, not a licensed retail vendor; or any health, welfare, charitable, religious, educational, fraternal or patriotic organization created subsequent to December 31, 1938, and not a licensed vendor, who presents evidence that he has materially assisted in the collection of the Ohio sales tax.

Important Cautions

The total face value of a quantity of stamps, presented at any one time, must be at least $100, or a redemption value of $3.

Only those stamps of the issue of May 1, 1939, are redeemable. Stamps in use before that date are of no value.

"Demand Stamps," Governor Says

GOVERNOR John W. Bricker smiles as he contemplates the effect that the sales tax stamp redemption law, signed by him February 28, will have in retail stores all over Ohio. The new law, effective Monday, May 1, which puts a redemptive value of three percent on sales tax stamps, is expected to bring a state-wide demand for the stamps. Hundreds of civic agencies which may qualify for the redemption cash have already made plans for extensive stamp-collecting campaigns. "Demand Sales Tax Stamps—They Now Have Cash Value" is the slogan supporting their efforts. The Governor is shown holding a replica of the new stamp to be issued starting May 1, different in color and design from the old type and which will be exclusively redeemable.

Pictures of 204 County Farms Placed on File

Two hundred and four aerial pictures covering Pickaway county were received Friday by the Pickaway County Agricultural Conservation department.

These photographs, each 22 by 26 inches, are made to the scale of one inch equalling 660 feet. They are used in the department to outline farms and to compute acreages. The photographs were taken last Fall. A map of the county with numbers marked on it corresponding to the photographs was received.

Saturday marks the final day for Pickaway county farmers to sign for participation in the 1939 agricultural conservation program. Paul Matthias, secretary of the county committee, said approximately 1,435 farms have been listed to date under the program. The county has 2,073 farms.

No farm inspection for the purpose of determining performance and payments will be made on farms for which farm plans are not executed by May 1, except where landlords have specifically requested such inspection by letter.

Either the completion of a farm plan or a letter from the landlord indicating his intention to participate in the 1939 program, received by the committee by May 1, will assure inspection of a farm for the purpose of determining payments. It will be impossible to obtain payments on farms for which no performance inspection is requested by May 1.

SCHOOLS NAME TWO EDUCATORS

George Broyles Chosen At Monroe, Carl Bennett At Walnut

Two more Pickaway county school superintendents have been reemployed for next year.

The Monroe township board of education reemployed George H. Broyles for his third year as superintendent at a meeting Thursday night. Employment of teachers will be considered at a special meeting to be called in May. Mrs. Edna P. Kettner, of Columbus, instrumental teacher, has offered her resignation effective at the end of the school term.

The county school office announced Carl Bennett, N. Court street, has been reemployed for his fourth year as superintendent at Walnut township school. Two teachers at Walnut, both under the Smith-Hughes plan, have been reemployed. They are Miss Olive Grimm, vocational home economics instructor, and Kenneth Holtrey, agriculture teacher.

LIGHT RAIN DOESN'T HALT COUNTY FARMERS' WORK

Rainfall of two-tenths of an inch Thursday night did not prevent Pickaway county farmers from continuing their plowing Friday. Farmers are rushing their plowing as rapidly as possible after several weeks delay due to incessant rains.

Corn planting will be under way in Pickaway county next week if weather conditions permit. The highest temperature Thursday was 85. Lowest in the night was 52.

COUNTY YOUNG PEOPLE ENTERTAINMENT GUESTS

A group of approximately 25 Pickaway county young folk, members of the senior 4-H club, and F. K. Blair, county agent, will go to Ohio State university, Friday evening, to attend an entertainment to be held in the Armory, sponsored by the University Young People's club. Groups from counties in central Ohio have been invited to the social event.

which no performance inspection is requested by May 1.

May 1 is the deadline also for signing the agreements to combine tracts of farmland. This agreement provides for the division of payments under the 1939 farm program for those who share in crops on farms which have been combined.

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for April 30 is Acts 15:36 to 17:15, the Golden Text being Acts 16:10, "And after he had seen the vision, immediately we endeavored to go into Macedonia.")

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

IN STUDYING the life and adventures of the Apostle Paul, one is struck with the fact that he must have been a very colorful character. He was forceful, alert, fearless and determined, and we may even say he had a sense of humor.

Such a man naturally did not always agree with those with whom he was associated, and occasionally he quarreled with them. This is what happened when, some time after the journeys described in last Sunday's lesson, Paul said again to Barnabas, "Let us go and visit our brethren in every city where we have preached the word of the Lord, and see how they do."

Barnabas agreed, but he wanted to take Mark with them. Paul, however, did not want to take him, and the contention was so sharp between them that eventually they separated, Barnabas taking Mark, and Paul taking Silas, the Greek disciple of last week's lesson. Each went a different way.

Peter had many visions which guided his acts because they came, he believed, from the Lord. Some cities he planned to visit were left off the itinerary because "the spirit suffered them not."

At the town of Troas, a vision appeared unto Paul one night—a man stood before him, praying, "Come over into Macedonia and help us."

After he had seen the vision, Paul started for Macedonia, arriving at Philippi, the chief city. There on the Sabbath, there being no Jewish synagogue in the town, he went out of the city to the riverside to hold services. There came a certain woman named Lydia, a seller of purple cloths, and she was converted by Paul and was baptized with her entire household. She then asked the disciples to come to her home.

On their way to prayer, they met a young woman who was said to be possessed of a devil. She prophesied for money, bringing her masters much gold. She kept following Paul and Silas, crying, "These men are the servants of the most high God, which show unto us the way of salvation," in mockery, evidently. At last Paul turned and said to the spirit, "I command thee in the name of Jesus Christ to come out of her."

That did not please the woman's masters, however, who now realized that their source of revenue was gone. They caught Paul and Silas and brought them to the magistrates, accusing them of troubling the city and teaching customs which were not lawful for Romans to learn. The multitudes being against the disciples, the magistrates tore off their clothes and ordered them beaten and thrown into prison, telling the jailer to keep them safely. They then were thrust into the inner prison and their feet made fast in the stocks.

At midnight Paul and Silas were praying and singing hymns. "And suddenly there was a great earthquake, so that the foundations of the prison were shaken; and immediately all the doors were open, and everyone's bonds were loosed."

The prison-keeper was so alarmed at this, thinking that all his prisoners had escaped and he would be punished for it, that he took his sword and was about to kill himself, but Paul cried with a loud voice, saying, "Do thyself no harm for we are all here."

The keeper called for a light, and when he saw that indeed his prisoners had not escaped, he fell down before Paul and Silas and asked what he must do to be saved. "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house," he was answered. The keeper took them to his home, after binding up their hurts, and was baptized with all his household.

Cash Redemption of Sales Tax Stamps Begins May 1

Cash redemption of Ohio sales tax stamps, beginning May 1, will make $1,150,000 available for civic activities the coming year, according to proponents of the Redemption Plan.

This total is three percent of the sales tax collection in 1938 and will increase each year as the new statute functions to its fullest, it is pointed out.

Sales tax collections for 1938 ran $10,000,000 behind what they should aggregate each year, because of lax enforcement and business conditions, it is explained, so the new law, drafted by Senator Grant Ward, of Franklin and Pickaway counties, was designed to anchor in the minds of the retail customer a constant demand for the receipt, to which he is entitled for his payment of the existing tax on all purchases.

From this demand there will accrue a two-fold benefit:—

1—Increased sales tax collections, estimated at $3,000,000 to $6,000,000 each year, thereby aiding state agencies dependent upon tax revenue.

2—New sources of cash income for organizations constantly financing programs for the common good.

"Demand Sales Tax Stamps—They Now Have Cash Value" is the slogan for the campaign which will be conducted for a brief period prior to May 1, for the purpose of acquainting the public with the far-reaching benefits to be derived. A number of organizations already have designed their intention of tapping this new source of constant cash income, it is stated.

Redeemable Now
Tax receipts (popularly known as "stamps") will be redeemable at three percent of their face value, when presented to the Tax Commission of Ohio in amounts of $100 or more, under the new law.

To carry out the provisions of this statute, the Commission has changed the design and color of the stamps to be issued by retail dealers on and after May 1.

Procedure For Redemption
Procedure in presenting sales tax stamps for cash redemption is as follows:

1—Apply for the official form, on which to make the presentation, either in person or by mail, at the office of the Tax Commission of Ohio, Sales Tax Section, Redemption Division, 68 East Gay Street, Columbus.

2—Segregate all stamps, as to their face value, then fasten them together by clipping, tying or binding, according to their denomination.

3—Mail application blanks, properly filled out, together with stamps, carefully packaged, to the Tax Commission of Ohio, Columbus, or deposit them at other stations, which may be designated by the commission, from time to time.

Qualifications For Redemption
Organizations and individuals, entitled to apply for redemption, fall into two classifications:—
1—Health, welfare, charitable, religious, educational, fraternal and patriotic organizations, including auxiliaries, branches and committees of these organizations, in existence on December 31, 1938, and the central and executive committees of political parties.

2—Any individual, corporation, partnership or association, not a licensed retail vendor; or any health, welfare, charitable, religious, educational, fraternal or patriotic organization created subsequent to December 31, 1938, and not a licensed vendor, who presents evidence that he has materially assisted in the collection of the Ohio sales tax.

Important Cautions
The total face value of a quantity of stamps, presented at any one time, must be at least $100, or a redemption value of $3.

Only those stamps of the issue of May 1, 1939, are redeemable. Stamps in use before that date are of no value.

"Demand Stamps," Governor Says

GOVERNOR John W. Bricker smiles as he contemplates the effect that the sales tax stamp redemption law, signed by him February 28, will have in retail stores all over Ohio. The new law, effective Monday, May 1, which puts a redemptive value of three percent on sales tax stamps, is expected to bring a state-wide demand for the stamps. Hundreds of civic agencies which may qualify for the redemption cash have already made plans for extensive stamp-collecting campaigns. "Demand Sales Tax Stamps—They Now Have Cash Value" is the slogan supporting their efforts. The Governor is shown holding a replica of the new stamp to be issued starting May 1, different in color and design from the old type and which will be exclusively redeemable.

Pictures of 204 County Farms Placed on File

Two hundred and four aerial pictures covering Pickaway county were received Friday by the Pickaway County Agricultural Conservation department.

These photographs, each 22 by 26 inches, are made to the scale of one inch equalling 660 feet. They are used in the department to outline farms and to compute acreages. The photographs were taken last Fall. A map of the county with numbers marked on it corresponding to the photographs was received.

Saturday marks the final day for Pickaway county farmers to sign for participation in the 1939 agricultural conservation program.

Paul Mattheas, secretary of the county committee, said approximately 1,435 farms have been listed to date under the program. The county has 2,073 farms.

No farm inspection for the purpose of determining performance and payments will be made on farms for which farm plans are not executed by May 1, except where landlords have specifically requested such inspection by letter. Either the completion of a farm plan or a letter from the

George Broyles Chosen At Monroe, Carl Bennett At Walnut

Two more Pickaway county school superintendents have been reemployed for next year.

The Monroe township board of education reemployed George H. Broyles for his third year as superintendent at a meeting Thursday night. Employment of teachers will be considered at a special meeting to be called in May. Mrs. Edna P. Kettner, of Columbus, instrumental teacher, has offered her resignation effective at the end of the school term.

The county school office announced Carl Bennett, N. Court street, has been reemployed for his fourth year as superintendent at Walnut township school. Two teachers at Walnut, both under the Smith-Hughes plan, have been reemployed. They are Miss Olive Grimm, vocational home economics instructor, and Kenneth Holtrey, agriculture teacher.

LIGHT RAIN DOESN'T HALT COUNTY FARMERS' WORK

Rainfall of two-tenths of an inch Thursday night did not prevent Pickaway county farmers from continuing their plowing Friday. Farmers are rushing their plowing as rapidly as possible after several weeks delay due to incessant rains.

Corn planting will be next way in Pickaway county next week if weather conditions permit.

The highest temperature Thursday was 85. Lowest in the night was 52.

COUNTY YOUNG PEOPLE ENTERTAINMENT GUESTS

A group of approximately 25 Pickaway county young folk, members of the senior 4-H club, and F. K. Blair, county agent, will go to Ohio State university, Friday evening, to attend an entertainment to be held in the Armory, sponsored by the University Young People's club. Groups from counties in central Ohio have been invited to the social event.

which no performance inspection is requested by May 1.

May 1 is the deadline also for signing the agreements to combine tracts of farmland. This agreement provides for the division of payments under the 1939 farm program for those who share in crops on farms which have been combined.

SOLONS PREPARE TO CENTER TASK ON RELIEF FUND

Conferees On Tax Commission Squabble Expected To Reach Agreement

$10,000,000 ASKED YEARLY

Much Activity Reported In Long Thursday Session Of Legislature

COLUMBUS, April 28—With a compromise about to be reached by conferees on the bill reorganizing the state tax commission, legislators will concentrate on general appropriations and relief when they return to the capitol next week.

The joint relief committee will meet Monday night after the session to receive a report from two sub-committees working out administrative and financial sections of the bill.

The sub-committee on financing of relief will recommend that the state appropriate $10,000,000 a year for the purpose of looking after indigents, or $50,000 more a year than the house finance committee wrote into the general appropriation bill.

Committee To Agree

Rep. J. Harry McGregor, Republican floor leader in the house, said the conference committee which has been at odds over two sections of the bill abolishing the present tax commission, would reach an agreement Tuesday and get the measure ready for final action.

If the senate conferees will accept the section which provides appeals from tax appeal board rulings direct to the supreme court, the house members will consent to putting back in the bill a clause which would allow assistant attorney generals to work on tax matters, McGregor said.

Meanwhile, a bill providing for the administration of relief was ready to be turned over to the joint committee.

Chief features are pre-audits by the state auditor and filing of completed audits with the state welfare director, who will direct the relief program, and the 88 boards of county commissioners.

County relief will be administered by relief directors appointed by the county commissioners. A proposal of senate members of the committee that the county commissioners could appoint county welfare boards met with opposition from the house side and was not included in the bill.

Credit Provided

Subdivisions will receive credit for expenditures or encumbrances arising since Jan. 1, 1939 in matching state funds. Allocations to counties by the state emergency board will be limited to 25 percent a month of the total appropriation.

The bill prohibits the state auditor from making monthly distribution to counties until the welfare director certifies that such counties have conformed with provisions of the act.

The bill carries the alien clause, which makes ineligible any person who has illegally entered the United States or persons who entered the country since 1925 who have not declared their intention of becoming American citizens.

Any person engaging in temporary employment while receiving relief will not lose his status on the relief roll. He will be restored to the roll after conclusion of employment.

Drawn by Rep. L. H. Myers (R-Allen) chairman of the administrative sub-committee, the measure was called "a good bill" by Speaker William M. McCulloch of the house.

House leaders were confident the relief committee would iron out financial differences in time for the general appropriations bill

MOUNTAIN YOUTH GOES TO DEATH IN GAS CHAMBER

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., April 28 — Robert Kenyon, the youngest man to die in Missouri's lethal gas chamber, paid with his life early today for the kidnapping in January, 1937, of Dr. J. C. B. Davis of Willow Springs, Mo.

The 22-year-old Ozarks youth entered the chamber at 12:07 a. m. and was pronounced dead five minutes later. His face showed no emotion and he made no statement.

Kenyon was convicted of murdering the 67-year-old physician in a plot to extort $5,000, which sum he said he needed to marry. The youth explained he shot Dr. Davis because he "had no place to put him" while awaiting ransom payment. The doctor's body was found in a pond, check book in hand, with five bullets in his back. Kenyon confessed the doctor had offered to write his personal check for $5,000.

FLORENCE, Ariz., April 28 — The state of Arizona was to exact the death penalty from Archie Lee Short, 27, killer of a deputy sheriff, today in the lethal gas chamber. Short shot and killed Jack Hickox, a deputy sheriff of Ray, Ariz., last June 9; after escaping from the prison farm with four other convicts.

calling for expenditures of $317,945,331 during the next biennium to be voted on Wednesday or Thursday.

Requests Differ

Governor Bricker had recommended that the state's relief appropriation be $18,500,000 for the two years, while the house finance committee increased it to $19,000,000. The governor was said to be not adverse to $20,000,000 being spent if further slashes can be made in the budget without impairing the efficiency of state departments.

The house held a lengthy session yesterday after the leadership decided there was not enough work to keep it in session today. For four hours the lower chamber wrangled on legislation and wound up by passing bills which would:

Repeal the automobile dealers' and salesman's license law; reorganize the state health department, making the term of the director five years; provide for hearing on highway condemnation proceedings before a project is started; creating a municipal court at Campbell; to assess firemen two percent of their salaries for municipal relief and pension funds; provide for issuance of housing certificates monthly not to exceed one-twelfth of taxes charged on current duplicate.

Sen. A. D. Baumhart (R-Vermillion) said efforts would be made next week to have reconsidered the vote by which his bill to establish a six-member Ohio development and publicity commission was defeated in the house.

Chief opposition to the bill, which had passed the senate, was that private industry should spend its own money to advertise and that taxpayers' money should not be used to publicize Ohio's resources.

The senate agreed to amendments in the parole board reorganization bill and sent it to the governor, who indicated he would name new members within a few days.

Bills approved by the senate would:

Authorize creation of four divisions in the welfare department; require fishermen to wear a badge with license number on outer garment.

SOLONS PREPARE TO CENTER TASK ON RELIEF FUND

Conferees On Tax Commission Squabble Expected To Reach Agreement

$10,000,000 ASKED YEARLY

Much Activity Reported In Long Thursday Session Of Legislature

COLUMBUS, April 28—With a compromise about to be reached by conferees on the bill reorganizing the state tax commission, legislators will concentrate on general appropriations and relief when they return to the capitol next week.

The joint relief committee will meet Monday night after the session to receive a report from two sub-committees working out administrative and financial sections of the bill.

The sub-committee on financing of relief will recommend that the state appropriate $10,000,000 a year for the purpose of looking after indigents, or $50,000 more a year than the house finance committee wrote into the general appropriation bill.

Committee To Agree
Rep. J. Harry McCregor, Republican floor leader in the house, said the conference committee which has been at odds over two sections of the bill abolishing the present tax commission, would reach an agreement Tuesday and get the measure ready for final action.

If the senate conferees will accept the section which provides appeals from tax appeal board rulings direct to the supreme court, the house members will consent to putting back in the bill a clause which would allow assistant attorney generals to work on tax matters, McCregor said.

Meanwhile, a bill providing for the administration of relief was ready to be turned over to the joint committee.

Chief features are pre-audits by the state auditor and filing of completed audits with the state welfare director, who will direct the relief program, and the 88 boards of county commissioners.

County relief will be administered by relief directors appointed by the county commissioners. A proposal of senate members of the committee that the county commissioners could appoint county welfare boards met with opposition from the house side and was not included in the bill.

Credit Provided

Subdivisions will receive credit for expenditures or encumbrances arising since Jan. 1, 1939 in matching state funds. Allocations to counties by the state emergency board will be limited to 25 percent a month of the total appropriation.

The bill prohibits the state auditor from making monthly distribution to counties until the welfare director certifies that such counties have conformed with provisions of the act.

The bill carries the alien clause, which makes ineligible any person who has illegally entered the United States or persons who entered the country since 1925 who have not declared their intention of becoming American citizens.

Any person engaging in temporary employment while receiving relief will not lose his status on the relief roll. He will be restored to the roll after conclusion of employment.

Drawn by Rep. L. H. Myers (R-Allen) chairman of the administrative sub-committee, the measure was called "a good bill" by Speaker William M. McCulloch of the house.

House leaders were confident the relief committee would iron out financial differences in time for the general appropriations bill.

MOUNTAIN YOUTH GOES TO DEATH IN GAS CHAMBER

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., April 28—Robert Kenyon, the youngest man to die in Missouri's lethal gas chamber, paid with his life early today for the kidnapping in January, 1937, of Dr. J. C. B. Davis of Willow Springs, Mo.

The 22-year-old Ozarks youth entered the chamber at 12:07 a. m. and was pronounced dead five minutes later. His face showed no emotion and he made no statement.

Kenyon was convicted of murdering the 67-year-old physician in a plot to extort $5,000, which sum he said he needed to marry. The youth explained he shot Dr. Davis because he "had no place to put him" while awaiting ransom payment. The doctor's body was found in a pond, check book in hand, with five bullets in his back. Kenyon confessed the doctor had offered to write his personal check for $5,000.

FLORENCE, Ariz., April 28—The state of Arizona was to exact the death penalty from Archie Lee Short, 27, killer of a deputy sheriff, today in the lethal gas chamber. Short shot and killed Jack Hickox, a deputy sheriff of Ray, Ariz., last June 9; after escaping from the prison farm with four other convicts.

calling for expenditures of $317,945,331 during the next biennium to be voted on Wednesday or Thursday.

Requests Differ

Governor Bricker had recommended that the state's relief appropriation be $18,500,000 for the two years, while the house finance committee increased it to $19,000,000. The governor was said to be not adverse to $20,000,000 being spent if further slashes can be made in the budget without impairing the efficiency of state departments.

The house held a lengthy session yesterday after the leadership decided there was not enough work to keep it in session today. For four hours the lower chamber wrangled on legislation and wound up by passing bills which would:

Repeal the 'automobile dealers' and salesman's license law; reorganize the state health department, making the term of the director five years; provide for hearing on highway condemnation proceedings before a project is started; creating a municipal court at Campbell; to assess firemen two percent of their salaries for municipal relief and pension funds; provide for issuance of housing certificates monthly not to exceed one-twelfth of taxes charged on current duplicate.

Sen. A. D. Baumhart (R-Vermillion) said efforts would be made next week to have reconsidered the vote by which his bill to establish a six-member Ohio development and publicity commission was defeated in the house.

THREE JUDGES ACQUIT OHIOAN AFTER HEARING

"Motor Death" Probe Ends In Not Guilty Verdict; Widow To Be Released

NORWALK, April 28 — Early release of Coletta Schlett, 28, was expected today to write finis to the investigation of her husband's death on the evening of Jan. 26.

Harold Hastings, 35-year-old Sandusky steel worker, was acquitted late yesterday of a murder charge in connection with the case, after a four-day trial in which he admitted intimacies with Mrs. Schlett. A three-judge court gave a unanimous decision of not guilty.

Prosecutor Rex Bracy said a similar murder charge against Mrs. Schlett would be nolleed next week. Judge E. G. Martin indicated he would rule next week on Bracy's motion to drop the charge.

The woman's husband, Carl Schlett, 29, was killed when he was struck by an automobile on a lonely road near Bellevue. The state charged the death was a deliberate murder by a driver who intentionally ran Schlett down.

The state's case against Hastings was based largely on the testimony of Mrs. Schlett, who told of going out with him before her husband's death. Mrs. Schlett said she saw her husband enter Hastings' car on the evening Hastings insisted on the witness stand that he had been in Sandusky, 14 miles from where the body was found, throughout the entire day and evening Schlett met his death.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Probably the most excited girl in the world today is Wendy Hiller who is being hailed as the most sensational acting "find" in England following upon her performance as the Cockney flower girl in "Pygmalion," filmization of the noted Shaw stage success, which opens Sunday at the Cliftona theatre with Leslie Howard in the role of the professor who transforms the illiterate flower girl into a lady.

Miss Hiller first came to the notice of London stage audiences with her brilliant performance in "Love on the Dole," after which she appeared in a Malvern Festival play. G. B. Shaw, observing her work in this play selected her as the ideal choice for the role of the Cockney heroine in "Pygmalion."

"I can't tell you how pleased I am with my success in 'Pygmalion,'" Miss Hiller told interviewers following the picture's premier. "And I think much of it is due to the kindness and helpfulness of Leslie Howard. I hope to be able to appear with him again in a new film he is planning."

AT THE GRAND

Errol Flynn comes to the screen of the Grand theatre Sunday in a role that is, on the surface, altogether unlike any he has ever played before, for he is the straight-shooting hero of "Dodge City," a film about the period when the little Kansas town of that name was the roughest and wickedest community of the old west.

Produced by Warner Bros. in Technicolor, "Dodge City" is a spirited and authentic re-creation of those hectic days in the 1870's when the coming of the railroad to the little town at the northern end of the famed Chisholm Trail made it the leading cattle shipping center of that era.

And its authenticity is lessened not whit by the fact that the obviously British Errol Flynn is depicted as the boss who has driven a huge herd of Texas longhorns up the Chisholm Trail and then, after his arrival in Dodge City, becomes the sheriff who cleans up the wild and wicked town. He is explained as an Irish soldier-of-fortune who had become a Texas cowboy after fighting for the South in the Civil War, and the history of the old west contains several notable examples of adventurous Britons who became men to be feared in that virile era.

France Has—Italy Wants

THIS MAP illustrates the Mediterranean situation. Italy wants Jibouti, the French-owned terminus of the French railroad from the Red Sea to Addis Ababa; some Italians on the management board of the Suez Canal, and at least nationalist representation for Italians in all-important Tunisia. Control of this African colony would give Il Duce a chain across the Mediterranean.

SHERIFF HINTS SELF DEFENSE IN MINE DEATH

ZANESVILLE, April 28 — No charges will be filed against George Reitter, 53, one of the operators of a mine near Otsego who was arrested yesterday after a Tuscarawas county miner was fatally shot and another wounded in a clash at the mine it was indicated today.

The dead man was John Abraham, 24, of New Philadelphia, who was shot through the chest with a shotgun. Another miner, Alex Boggini, was wounded in the arm. Charles Reitter, 56, brother of George, was severely beaten in the melee.

Indications were that George Reitter would be freed on the ground he fired in defense of himself and property when besieged by about 200 miners.

Coshocton County Sheriff Jay Abbott said the miners, mostly from Tuscarawas county, had been stopping coal trucks and visiting small mines to make sure they were closed in accordance with the general shutdown throughout the soft coal fields.

The clash occurred, the sheriff's office said, when the miners asked Reitter if his mine was running coal. According to the miners, the mine had been shipping coal to a Tuscarawas county manufacturing company.

BILL TO LIMIT LEGISLATURE TO 120 DAYS VOTED

COLUMBUS, April 28—A joint resolution to place on the ballot next November a proposal to limit all regular sessions of the general assembly to 120 days was before the house today.

The limitation would become law on Jan. 1, 1940 if the house and senate approve the proposal and a majority of the electorate voted in favor of it. It was introduced by Rep. Jackson Betts (R-Hancock).

Another joint resolution, introduced by Rep. Gus Kasch (D-Summit) would place on the ballot in November the question of whether a convention will be held to revise, alter or amend the Ohio constitution.

THREE JUDGES ACQUIT OHIOAN AFTER HEARING

"Motor Death" Probe Ends In Not Guilty Verdict; Widow To Be Released

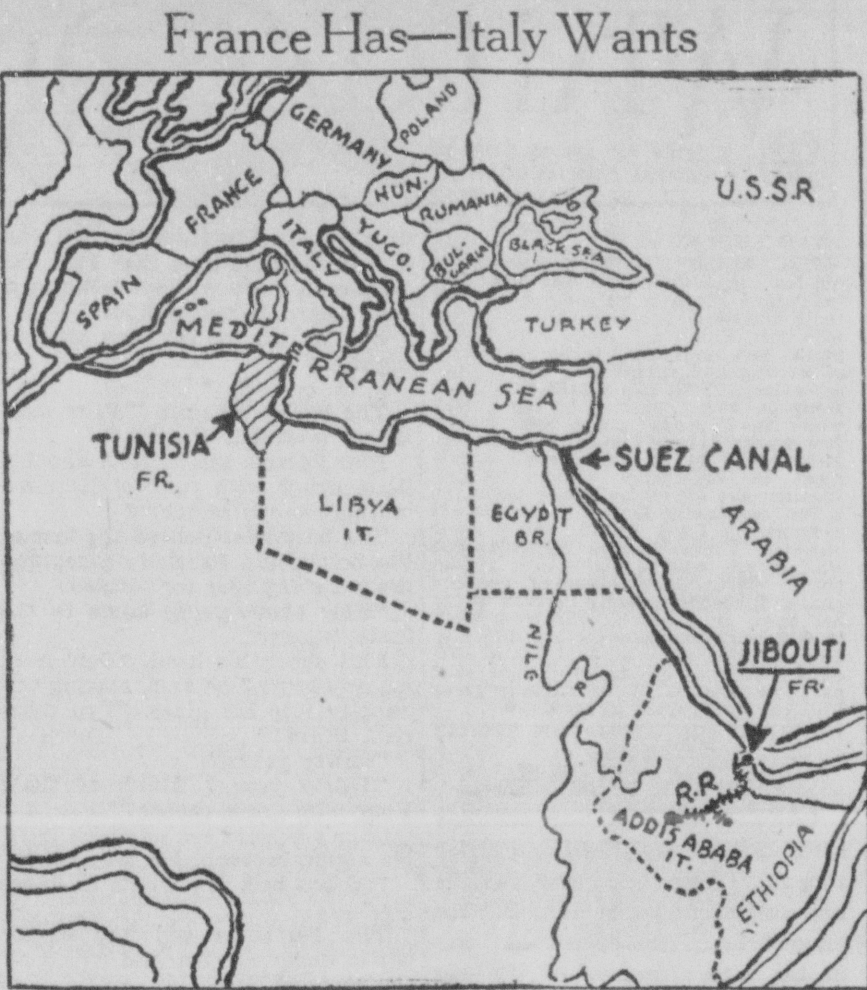

NORWALK, April 28 — Early release of Coletta Schlett, 28, was expected today to write finis to the investigation of her husband's death on the evening of Jan. 26.

Harold Hastings, 35-year-old Sandusky steel worker, was acquitted late yesterday of a murder charge in connection with the case, after a four-day trial in which he admitted intimacies with Mrs. Schlett. A three-judge court gave a unanimous decision of not guilty.

Prosecutor Rex Bracy said a similar murder charge against Mrs. Schlett would be nolleed next week. Judge E. G. Martin indicated he would rule next week on Bracy's motion to drop the charge.

The woman's husband, Carl Schlett, 29, was killed when he was struck by an automobile on a lonely road near Bellevue. The state charged the death was a deliberate murder by a driver who intentionally ran Schlett down.

The state's case against Hastings was based largely on the testimony of Mrs. Schlett, who told of going out with him before her husband's death. Mrs. Schlett said she saw her husband enter Hastings' car on the evening of Jan. 26, and that she saw him get out of the car and go to the house where the body was found, throughout the entire day and evening Schlett met his death.

Italy wants the Red Sea to Addis Ababa; some Italians on the management board of the Suez Canal, and at least nationalist representation for Italians in all-important Tunisia. SHERIFF HINTS SELF DEFENSE IN MINE DEATH

ZANESVILLE, April 28 — No charges will be filed against George Reitter, 53, one of the operators of a mine near Otago who was arrested yesterday after a Tuscarawas county miner was fatally shot and another wounded in a clash at the mine it was indicated today.

The dead man was John Abraham, 24, of New Philadelphia, who was shot through the chest with a shotgun. Another miner, Alex Boggini, was wounded in the arm. Charles Reitter, 56, brother of George, was severely beaten in the melee.

Indications were that George Reitter would be freed on the ground he fired in defense of himself and property when besieged by about 200 miners.

Coshocton County Sheriff Jay Abbott said the miners, mostly from Tuscarawas county, had been stopping coal trucks and visiting small mines to make sure they were closed in accordance with the general shutdown throughout the soft coal fields.

The clash occurred, the sheriff's office said, when the miners asked Reitter if his mine was running coal. According to the miners, the mine had been shipping coal to a Tuscarawas county manufacturing company.

BILL TO LIMIT LEGISLATURE TO 120 DAYS VOTED

COLUMBUS, April 28—A joint resolution to place on the ballot next November a proposal to limit all regular sessions of the general assembly to 120 days was before the house today.

The limitation would become law on Jan. 1, 1940 if the house and senate approve the proposal and a majority of the electorate voted in favor of it. It was introduced by Rep. Jackson Betts (R-Hancock).

Another joint resolution, introduced by Rep. Gus Kasch (D-Summit) would place on the ballot in November the question of whether a convention will be held to revise, alter or amend the Ohio constitution.

OPEN LETTERS

TO PURCHASERS

FOLK: Inferiority complexes will take an enormous setback beginning Monday, May 1, when throughout the state of Ohio the call will resound in every retail store, "I want my sales tax stamp!" The customer who heretofore has meekly neglected to pick up the tax stamp from the counter, for fear that by-standers might disdainfully stare at her for such unconventional meticulousness, now can find courage in a standby excuse for her actions. "I'm saving them for the Ladies' Aid Society," she will retort when a neighbor or friend casts a questioning glance in her direction. No longer will clerks throw the customers' stamps into receptacles with an almost automatic gesture. On and after Monday, the "nuisance" takes on new character. With the change in color and design, sales tax stamps will become very much in demand. With the slogan, "Demand Your Sales Tax Stamps—They Now Have Cash Value" all non-profit charitable, welfare, educational, and health organizations of Circleville and Pickaway county should join the campaign to collect retail sales tax receipts. The old order changeth. The customer wants his stamps!

TO MUHLENBERG TOWNSHIP FOLK

FRIENDS: Your school district is faced with a serious problem this year as a result of the annulment of the high school charter, effective June 30. This means that all state aid and recognition will be withdrawn on that date. Small enrollment is the cause for the action. This problem has been faced by the district for many years, but has been carried along with no solution. Residents of the district and the school board should make every effort to find a solution as soon as possible in the most satisfactory manner. Petty differences should be forgotten and arrangements worked out to assure a satisfactory school for the youngsters of the district. Think of the welfare of the children in meeting this problem.

World At A Glance

Colonel Lindbergh is a deep grief to the army air corps and to everyone else interested in military and naval aviation. Not that they don't all believe that he will give the government a wealth of valuable advice concerning the development and upkeep of Uncle Sam's flying equipment and personnel. The trouble with him is that he has such a passion for anonymity. If he would, he could so popularize skymanship that there'd be no controlling the public demand for a force of American fighting planes about twice the strength of the combined potencies of all the rest of the world's powers. Appropriations would go through Congress a-kinning. But is he a punk advertiser? Compared with him, J. P. Morgan, the Pope, the King of England, the Mikado and others are readily accessible to newspapermen.

When he landed in New York from Europe, reporters couldn't so much as see him; cameramen had trouble photographing him. Even aboard ship, crossing the Atlantic, he'd been a mystery.

DUCKS THE CAMERAS

Following his arrival in Washington, officials wouldn't admit that he was in the capital. It finally was ascertained that he had reported to General Arnold of the army air corps. How he did so, without being caught at it, is a puzzle. Scribes and cameramen thought they had watched that building unescapably, until suddenly they discovered that the colonel already had visited the general's office and was interned in quarters across the corridor, in the Munitions Building, with his door locked—and nobody answering kicks and yells at it. Nobody answering telephone calls, either. And no information from collateral sources.

Colonel Lindbergh isn't the first celebrity who has been a shrinking violet. Nevertheless, he's the first one to be so successful with his shrinking.

Colonel Lindbergh's anti-publicity complex may fairly be presumed to be in part due to the terrible tragedy of the Hauptmann kidnapping.

Still, he was anti-publicity before that.

Right after his return from his initial trans-Atlantic flight, before his marriage, he didn't like newspapermen or photographers. Journalists always found him crabby.

DAD WAS DIFFERENT

It was queer, too. His father, the late Congressman Charles A. Lindbergh, Sr., recognized the utility of the limelight. He was a somewhat radical legislator, who saw the advantages of his kind of publicity, and made the most of it. Today's Charley seems to hate it—and did before his son's kidnapping, which was enough to have blighted any man's life.

Be all that as it may—Lindy could be a perfectly wonderful advertiser for American aviation (civil and military) if he'd lend himself to it.

Indeed, he's a wonderful advertisement anyway.

But he could beat it a thousand miles if he'd take the aggressive. He won't talk, though.

If he would, he'd have a good bit of world influence as a weight between peace and war.

TO MISS MARTHA FRENCH

CONTEST WINNER: Congratulations on your victory in the Pickaway county oratorical contest. It is a great achievement to win this contest, bringing to your school the honor of conducting next year's event. The contest was an interesting one that attracted a large crowd. You should be very proud of your victory.

CIRCUITEER.

TO SERVICE DEPARTMENT

EMPLOYEES: Have you noticed some of the bad places in the Court street paving? If you have not it would be wise to make a thorough inspection of the street and repair some of the breaks before they become more serious. One bad spot is in front of the B. P. O. Elks home. You have a lot of street repair work to be done this Spring that has been delayed by weather conditions. It may be wise to make repairs on Court street first as this is one of the busiest streets of the city.

TO CONTAINER CORPORATION

OFFICIALS: It was pleasing to Circleville and Pickaway county residents to learn that business in your industry during the first quarter of 1939 was much improved over the same period a year ago. Circleville is proud of its branch of the Container Corporation, whose executives are working diligently for the good of the plant and for the community in which it operates. Circleville has excellent industries, and any time a financial report shows business to be good, and getting better at a steady pace, the entire community feels proud. So, congratulations to your corporation and best wishes for continued success.

CIRCUITEER.

TO COUNTY SPORTSMEN

FRIENDS: Your project calling for shelters through which game will be fed and protected during the Winter season is worthy of comment. Game means a lot to Pickaway county and efforts should be directed toward preserving all that you can. The sportsmen's association should also do all it can to help fishing, which is even a more popular sport in Pickaway county than hunting. Streams should be restocked at the proper times and all anglers should be encouraged to use common sense in taking fish from the various streams.

TO MONDAY CLUB

ORGANIZATION: Many Circleville persons were unaware of the numerous activities in which your organization participates during a year's program until they read the report filed at the club's last meeting of the year. The Monday club has been an institution in Circleville for many, many years and its benevolences have been too numerous to mention. Your program, laid out a year in advance, is always of interest and I hope that your society is successful in all its endeavors.

Wise To Acquire Dental Plates?

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

EVERYBODY who wears dental plates gives the same advice to the poor innocent who, tired of eternal dental work, decides to have all his teeth out and be done with it. The advice is the same as Punch's advice to those about to be married, "Don't!"

The writer of this column will never be sufficiently grateful to a dentist who begged him almost with tears in his eyes not to think of adopting plates. "I don't know what your problem is," he said; "I am not your official dentist. But whatever it is, I think it can be fixed. And any condition is better than wearing plates."

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Disadvantages

Among the disadvantages of the "wearing of plates" condition is one that has been pointed out with great clarity by Dr. James B. Costen, of St. Louis. It has to do with disturbances of hearing and neuralgic pains in the face. Because very few doctors are yet acquainted with the syndrome and because its cure is so simple, I list once more the symptoms.

The ear symptoms:
1. Impaired hearing, continuously, or with intervals of improvement.
2. Stopping, or "stuffy," sensation in ears, marked about mealtime.
3. Dizziness, mild; again, attacks of prostrating severity, definitely relieved by inflation of eustachian tubes.

Other Symptoms

Neuralgias and irritative symptoms:
1. Headache.
2. Burning sensation in the throat, tongue and side of nose.
3. Absence of saliva or excessive saliva.
The cause of these symptoms is due to the action of the ill-fitting dental plate. They impinge on the eustachian tube, the canal that leads from the throat to the ear.

To prove the diagnosis dentists are now learning that there are a few objective signs, to wit: x-ray pictures of the jaw joint, taken both with the mouth open and shut, and tenderness around the joints when the fingers are placed upon them, combined with the history that the dental plates are so uncomfortable that they are removed except on the most formal occasions.

Replacement of the dental plates with well-fitting ones brings about improvement with magical suddenness.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. N.: "Can you tell me what causes the gums of one's teeth to bleed freely and often?"

Answer—Probably pyorrhea. They need immediate and vigorous treatment. A dentist should see them. They should be brushed with a very stiff brush, both the front and back surfaces of the tooth-gum margin, putting the brush down parallel with the line of the gum and using a rotary motion of the brush.

N. L.: "I am a girl 23 years of age and for several years when I go out in the winter my fingers of both hands turn pale and feel numb. Please advise about it."

Answer—The condition is known as Raynaud's disease. It is not dangerous. Avoidance of cold and protection are the only treatments. It is due to spasm of the blood vessels.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

READ THIS FIRST:

Phil Parrish, New York reporter, is old-fashioned enough to believe that his wife's place is in the home, with their new-born baby, Jessica, Eleanor, who met Phil on a small-town newspaper, has aspirations to do some kind of writing and supplement Phil's modest salary. Phil has a talk with Kate Douglas, society editor of his paper, who let Eleanor assist her for a few weeks before the baby was born. Kate stops in at the Parrish apartment in Greenwich Village to tell Eleanor she cannot take her back, for a few months at least. Phil proposes a house on Long Island, but Eleanor objects. Times become difficult and Phil is put on the night shift at the paper. With long evenings on her hands, Eleanor suddenly decides to try her hand at a novel. Phil goes back to day work and Eleanor has difficulty finishing her story without his knowledge. They decide to give their first night in months. Eleanor finally gives Phil her manuscript to read.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER NINETEEN

LATER, remembering the day after their party, Eleanor Parrish thought it was the longest day she had ever spent in her life. But the longest hour she ever spent was in the late afternoon of the day that followed it.

She woke that morning to find the day hot and sticky, an unusual day for mid-May.

The baby was fretful after a night of disturbed sleep and stale air.

Eleanor bathed her and gave her her breakfast before tackling the job of cleaning up the litter left from the night before.

It was noon before she thought of the scene with Phil before she went to bed. She looked for the big envelope containing her story and could not find it. She looked for a note from Phil. He had left none.

When the apartment was tidy again, she felt that she ought to take Jessica out to the park, but a nameless anxiety assailed her and she found little things to do to keep her near the telephone.

Phil usually rang up at lunch time.

Would Phil like the book? Excitement threaded a feeling of anxious anticipation for his call. Phil's values were right. With him rested her own opinion of her work.

The telephone was silent. But Jessica was not. Eleanor gathered her daughter up and took her to the park.

At seven o'clock she called the office and asked if Mr. Parrish had left any message for her. The operator said Mr. Parrish had left the office at three o'clock, leaving no message.

At two o'clock in the morning Eleanor went to bed to lie sleepless, disciplining herself to the rational idea that a newspaperman's first consideration was his job. But it was the first time that Phil had gone on a story without telling her that he would not be home.

She waited for his step all that night.

The bartender said: "We're closing up now, Mr. Parrish."

Phil Parrish said: "How about a little drink with me? Make mine 'nother double scotch."

The bartender poured the last of the bottle into Parrish's glass and drew a short beer for himself.

"How about going home to the little woman?"

Phil shook his head. "Don't need me any more," he said, staring unhappily into his glass. "You married, Steve?"

"Thirty years." "Think of that! Your wife got a career?"

"She's been about as much trouble as any woman, Mr. Parrish."

"S too bad. My wife's no trouble."

The bartender put the empty bottle under the bar and wiped off the surface.

"My wife's goin' places."

"Hadin' you better be doin' likewise, sir? I'll get you a cab."

"Don't want a cab. Want a boat."

A cattle boat. The old man takes that yarn 't'morrow, 'm goin' to South America. Ever see a failure, Steve?"

"Shure. Ain't you fellas always comin' in here tellin' me you're a failure today and Horace Greeley himself tomorrow?"

"Tomorrow?" Parrish's thoughts veered to another track. "Syndicate editor says he'll give me word tomorrow. Special favor to a fellow newspaperman. Do a favor for somebody they'll do favor for you. I got lots of friends, Steve."

"That you have, Mr. Parrish."

He shook his head miserably. "Friend not enough. Bein' a good guy . . . can't be a success that way. Too easy goin'. That's me."

"Sure, she'll get over it. Reporters' wives is all alike."

Parrish scowled at him. "Not my wife. She's not a wife . . . yes, she is. Damn good one. Good at everything."

"Then you'd better be gettin' home to her."

"Not tonight. Got to have news for her. Tomorrow. That what I said, 'Tomorrow'."

"Friend's right. I gotta close up now. I'll get you a cab, sir."

"No! No cab. Goin' get some sleep. Goin' to the Astor. That's me. Mrs. Astor's . . . No, Mrs. Parrish'll never mind the change. Tell the room clerk wake me at two o'clock."

At two o'clock Eleanor made herself a cup of tea. Then she went to the telephone again, but she did not pick up the receiver. Phil would hate it if he knew that she'd been calling every hour.

She hated the procedure herself. What manner of woman was she that she allowed these fears to possess her so that her blood rang in her ears and her heart rose and sank as footsteps approached her door only to go past it?

She tried to remember all that Phil had said two nights before. Phil had had great dignity and courage when he told her about Mona, something that she had never seen in him before.

Had there been more that he had not told her?

" . . . but I like to know that she likes my company."

SHE would be the kind of a girl who would be quiet and understanding when a man fled from a scene his wife had put on. Eleanor was shocked to realize that she HAD put on a kind of scene.

Perhaps he was with her now.

A little after five Phil came home. His face was gray and his manner was grave.

He made no explanations. He said: "It's hot here. Put your hat on and we'll go over to the park."

Eleanor said, "All right, Jessica is asleep. She'll be all right until we get back."

She washed her hands and face and dried them with tremulous hands. Phil's face—

She combed her hair and put on lipstick. There were dark circles under her eyes. She looked like a woman who had borne two days of waiting that was suffering.

Mona Ahlberg would never look that way. Those cool, calm eyes would never mirror what Eleanor saw in hers. What had there been in Mona's eyes when Phil went to her?

She came back into the living room saying, "We'll get something and bring it back for dinner."

He didn't answer her.

Her steps, matching his as they walked to the park, resounded dully in her ears. Words had fled from her. Her imagination had her in a vise-like grip.

They sat down on a bench near the fountains.

Phil reached in his pocket and brought out some peanuts which he flung to the pigeons.

Eleanor felt that they had been sitting there her whole lifetime when he spoke.

He said: "Eleanor, I have something to say to you."

She put out her hand to stop him, but she couldn't speak for the lump of fear in her throat.

TO PURCHASERS

FOLK: Inferiority complexes will take an enormous setback beginning Monday, May 1, when throughout the state of Ohio the call will resound in every retail store, "I want my sales tax stamp!" The customer who heretofore has meekly neglected to pick up the tax stamp from the counter, for fear that by-standers might disdainfully stare at her for such unconventional meticulousness, now can find courage in a standby excuse for her actions. "I'm saving them for the Ladies' Aid Society," she will retort when a neighbor or friend casts a questioning glance in her direction. No longer will clerks throw the customers' stamps into receptacles with an almost automatic gesture. On and after Monday, the "nuisance" takes on new character. With the change in color and design, sales tax stamps will become very much in demand. With the slogan, "Demand Your Sales Tax Stamps—They Now Have Cash Value" all non-profit charitable, welfare, educational, and health organizations of Circleville and Pickaway county should join the campaign to collect retail sales tax receipts. The old order changeth. The customer wants his stamps!

World At A Glance

Colonel Lindbergh is a deep grief to the army air corps and to everyone else interested in military and naval aviation. Not that they don't all believe that he will give the government a wealth of valuable advice concerning the development and upkeep of Uncle Sam's flying equipment and personnel. The trouble with him is that he has such a passion for anonymity. If he would, he could so popularize skymanhood that there'd be no controlling the public demand for a force of American fighting planes about twice the strength of the combined potencies of all the rest of the world's powers. Appropriations would go through Congress a-kin. But is he a punk advertiser? Compared with him, J. P. Morgan, the Pope, the King of England, the Mikado and others are readily accessible to newspapermen.

When he landed in New York from Europe, reporters couldn't so much as see him; cameramen had trouble photographing him. Even aboard ship, crossing the Atlantic, he'd been a mystery.

DUCKS THE CAMERAS

Following his arrival in Washington, officials wouldn't admit that he was in the capital. It finally was ascertained that he had reported to General Arnold of the army air corps. How he did so, without being caught at it, is a puzzle. Scribes and cameramen thought they had watched that building unescapably, until suddenly they discovered that the colonel already had visited the general's office and was interned in quarters across the corridor, in the Munitions Building, with his door locked—and nobody answering kinks and yells at it. Nobody answering telephone calls, either. And no information from collateral sources.

Colonel Lindbergh isn't the first celebrity who has been a shrinking violet. Nevertheless, he's the first one to be so successful with his shrinking.

Colonel Lindbergh's anti-publicity complex may fairly be presumed to be in part due to the terrible tragedy of the Hauptmann kidnapping.

Still, he was anti-publicity before that.

Right after his return from his initial trans-Atlantic flight, before his marriage, he didn't like newspapermen or photographers. Journalists always found him crabby.

DAD WAS DIFFERENT

It was queer, too. His father, the late Congressman Charles A. Lindbergh, Sr., recognized the utility of the limelight. He was a somewhat radical legislator, who saw the advantages of his kind of publicity, and made the most of it. Today's Charley seems to hate it—and did before his son's kidnapping, which was enough to have blighted any man's life.

Be all that as it may—Lindy could be a perfectly wonderful advertiser for American aviation (civil and military) if he'd lend himself to it.

Indeed, he's a wonderful advertisement anyway. But he could beat it a thousand miles if he'd take the aggressive. He won't talk, though.

If he would, he'd have a good bit of world influence as a weight between peace and war.

Wise To Acquire Dental Plates?

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

EVERYBODY who wears dental plates gives the same advice to the poor innocent who, tired of eternal dental work, decides to have all his teeth out and be done with it. The advice is the same as Punch's advice to those about to be married, "Don't!"

The writer of this column will never be sufficiently grateful to a dentist who begged him almost with tears in his eyes not to think of adopting plates. "I don't know what your problem is," he said; "I am not your official dentist. But whatever it is, I think it can be fixed. And any condition is better than wearing plates."

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Disadvantages

Among the disadvantages of the "wearing of plates" condition is one that has been pointed out with great clarity by Dr. James B. Costen, of St. Louis. It has to do with disturbances of hearing and neuralgic pains in the face. Because very few doctors are yet acquainted with the syndrome and because its cure is so simple, I list once more the symptoms.

The ear symptoms:
1. Impaired hearing, continuously, or with intervals of improvement.
2. Stopping, or "stuffy," sensation in ears, marked about mealtime.
3. Dizziness, mild; again, attacks of prostrating severity, definitely relieved by inflation of eustachian tubes.

Other Symptoms

Neuralgias and irritative symptoms:

1. Headache.
2. Burning sensation in the throat, tongue and side of nose.
3. Absence of saliva or excessive saliva.
The cause of these symptoms is due to the action of the ill-fitting dental plate. They impinge on the eustachian tube, the canal that leads from the throat to the ear.

To prove the diagnosis dentists are now learning that there are a few objective signs, to wit: x-ray pictures of the jaw joint, taken both with the mouth open and shut, and tenderness around the joints when the fingers are placed upon them, combined with the history that the dental plates are so uncomfortable that they are removed except on the most formal occasions.

Replacement of the dental plates with well-fitting ones brings about improvement with magical suddenness.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
O. N.: "Can you tell me what causes the gums of one's teeth to bleed freely and often?"
Answer—Probably pyorrhea. They need immediate and vigorous treatment. A dentist should see them. They should be brushed with a very stiff brush, both the front and back surfaces of the tooth-gum margin, putting the brush down parallel with the line of the gum and using a rotary motion of the brush.

N. L.: "I am a girl 23 years of age and for several years when I go out in the winter my fingers of both hands turn pale and feel numb. Please advise about it."

Answer—The condition is known as Raynaud's disease. It is not dangerous. Avoidance of cold and protection are the only treatments. It is due to spasm of the blood vessels.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. READ THIS FIRST:

Phil Parrish, New York reporter, is old-fashioned enough to believe that his wife's place is in the home, with their newborn baby, Jessica. Eleanor, who met Phil on a small-town newspaper, has aspirations to do some kind of writing and supplement Phil's modest salary. Phil has a talk with Kate Douglas, society editor of his paper, who let Eleanor assist her for a few weeks before the baby was born. Kate stops in at the Parrish apartment in Greenwich Village to tell Eleanor she cannot take her back, for a few months at least. Phil proposes a house on Long Island, but Eleanor objects. Times become difficult and Phil is put on the night shift at the paper. With long evenings on her hands, Eleanor suddenly decides to try her hand at a novel. Phil goes back to day work and Eleanor has difficulty finishing her story without his knowledge. They decide to give their first party in months. Eleanor finally gives Phil her manuscript to read and he is amazed. (NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER NINETEEN

LATER, remembering the day after their party, Eleanor Parrish thought it was the longest day she had ever spent in her life. But the longest hour she ever spent was in the late afternoon of the day that followed it.

She woke that morning to find the day hot and sticky, an unusual day for mid-May.

The baby was fretful after a night of disturbed sleep and stale air.

Eleanor bathed her and gave her her breakfast before tackling the job of cleaning up the litter left from the night before.

It was noon before she thought of the scene with Phil before she went to bed. She looked for the big envelope containing her story and could not find it. She looked for a note from Phil. He had left none.

When the apartment was tidy again, she felt that she ought to take Jessica out to the park, but a nameless anxiety assailed her and she found little things to do to keep her near the telephone.

Phil usually rang up at lunch time.

Would Phil like the book? Excitement threaded a feeling of anxious anticipation for his call. Phil's values were right. With him rested her own opinion of her work.

The telephone was silent. But Jessica was not. Eleanor gathered her daughter up and took her to the park.

At seven o'clock she called the office and asked if Mr. Parrish had left any message for her. The operator said Mr. Parrish had left the office at three o'clock, leaving no message.

At two o'clock in the morning Eleanor went to bed to lie sleepless, disciplining herself to the rational idea that a newspaperman's first consideration was his job. But it was the first time that Phil had gone on a story without telling her that he would not be home. She waited for his step all that night.

The bartender said: "We're closing up now, Mr. Parrish."

Phil Parrish said: "How about a little drink with me? Make mine another double scotch."

The bartender poured the last of the bottle into Parrish's glass and drew a short beer for himself.

"How about going home to the little woman?"

Phil shook his head. "Don't need me any more," he said, staring unhappily into his glass. "You married, Steve?"

"Shure. Ain't you fellas always copin' in here tellin' me you're a failure today and Horace Greeley himself tomorrow?"

"Tomorrow?" Parrish's thoughts veered to another track. "Syndicate editor says he'll give me word tomorrow. Special favor to a fellow newspaperman. Do a favor for somebody they'll do favor for you. I got lots of friends, Steve."

"That you have, Mr. Parrish."

He shook his head miserably. "Friend not enough. Bein' a good guy . . . can't be a success that way. Too easy goin'. That's me."

"Sure, she'll get over it. Reporters' wives is all alike."

At two o'clock Eleanor made herself a cup of tea. Then she went to the telephone again, but she did not pick up the receiver. Phil would hate it if he knew that she'd been calling every hour.

Had there been more that he had not told her?

"... but I like to know that she likes my company."

GARDEN-GRAPH

It is advisable to divide delphiniums every three years, otherwise they may develop crown rot and die. There are two methods of giving delphiniums a new lease on life: they can be dug up and divided, or cuttings can be taken from the adult plant.

Delphinium cuttings can be made in the Spring when the young shoots are from two to four inches high. Side stems and terminal shoots are the best for cutting purposes.

As shown in the accompanying drawing, remove a part of the crown with each cutting. Remove the lower leaves and plant the cuttings in clean, sharp sand.

The newly planted cuttings should be kept in a temperature of 50 degrees until they have taken hold. Protect them from sunlight for a few days after planting. When planting the cuttings, take care to "firm" the sand well about them, and water thoroughly.

It is advisable to divide delphiniums every three years, otherwise they may develop crown rot and die. There are two methods of giving delphiniums a new lease on life: they can be dug up and divided, or, cuttings can be taken from the adult plant.

Delphinium cuttings can be made in the Spring when the young shoots are from two to four inches high. Side stems and terminal shoots are the best for cutting purposes.

As shown in the accompanying drawing, remove a part of the crown with each cutting. Remove the lower leaves and plant the cuttings in clean, sharp sand.

The newly planted cuttings should be kept in a temperature of 50 degrees until they have taken hold. Protect them from sunlight for a few days after planting. When planting the cuttings, take care to "firm" the sand well about them, and water thoroughly.

Tigers Do Well In Track Meet

Circleville high school harriers, paced by brilliant Bob Owens, finished second in a track meet with Bexley and Columbus Aquinas, Thursday, the competition being conducted on Bexley's field. The team scores were Bexley, 60½; Circleville, 47½, and Aquinas, 38.

Failure of the Tigers to click in the relays cost them a chance to knock off the Blue Lions. Ineligibility of Marvin Jenkins, sprint star, hurt, too.

Owens was easily the star of the meet winning the 100 yard dash, 220 yard dash, the quarter mile and the broad jump. His work kept the Tigers in the meet. The only other Circleville first was gained by Harold Smith, who finished ahead of the field in the mile run. Snow Seymour, a freshman, was third in this event.

The summary:
120-yard high hurdles—Geist (B.); Brown (B.); Lison (C.). Time, 15.9 seconds.

100-yard dash—Owens (C.); Fox (A.); McCuniff (B.); Hertenstein (B.). Time, 10.5 seconds.

Mile run—Smith (C.); Burns (B.); Seymour (C.); Black (B.). Time, 5 minutes, 9 seconds.

Shot put—Clifford (A.); Baumgarner (C.); Hatch (B.); Hyle (A.). Distance, 38 feet, 5 inches.

880-yard relay—Aquinas (Connolly, Clifford, Higgins, Fox); Bexley, Circleville. Time, 1 minute, 40.5 seconds.

Pole vault—Allen (B.); Warner (C.); Martin (C.). Height, 9 feet, 4 inches.

440-yard—Owens (C.); Yackie (B.); Tippet (B.); R. Higgins (A.). Time, 54.7 seconds.

220-yard low hurdles—Geist (B.); Barnes (C.); Clifford (A.); Aller (B.). Time, 27.4 seconds.

Discus throw—Hatch (B.); Walters (C.); Hyle (A.); Wilson (B.). Distance, 117 feet, 9 inches.

880-yard run—D. Higgins (A.); McMann (A.); Magnuson (B.); Smith (C.). Time, 2 minutes, 11 seconds.

High jump—Hatch (B.); Lison (C.) and Burgess (B.), tied for second; Zaenglein (C.) Height, 5 feet, 4 inches.

220-yard dash—Owens (C.) Fox

Broad jump—Owens (C.); Fox (A.); Clifford (A.); McCuniff (B.). Distance 19 feet, 4 inches.
Mile relay—Bexley (Yackie, Warren, Orr, Tippet); Aquinas, Circleville. Time 3 minutes 57.7 seconds.
Final score—Bexley, 60½; Circleville, 47½; Aquinas, 38.

Arlington Shuts Out Red, Black Golfers

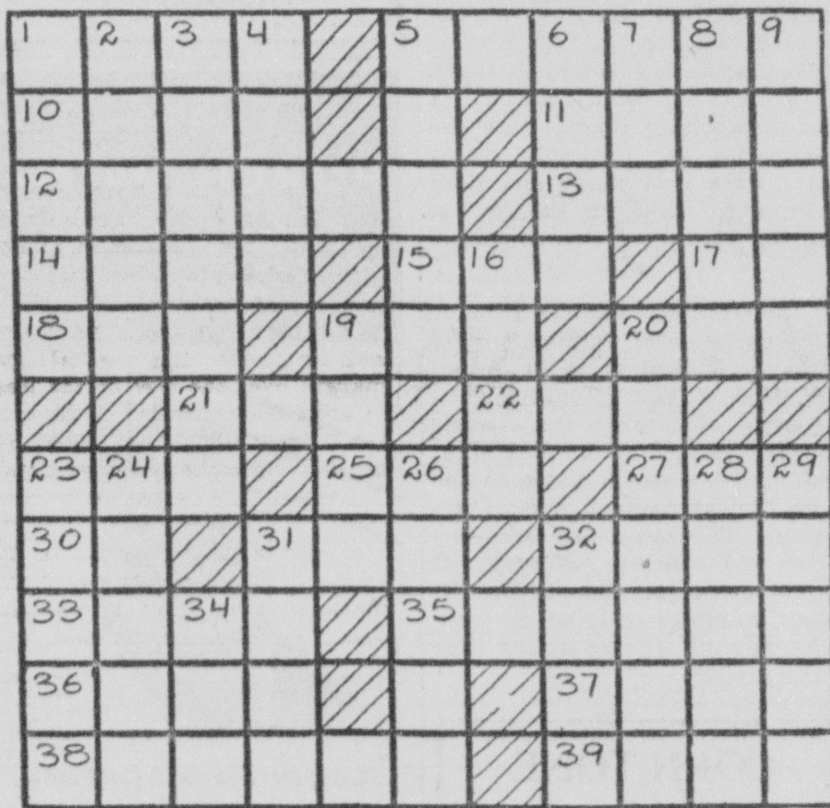

Circleville high school golfers, sadly in need of practice, failed to score a point Thursday afternoon against Upper Arlington's crack team on the Arlington course. The score was 12-0, Arlington sweeping through all the Tiger players.

On the Arlington team were Zartman, Sampson, Hall and Barr. The Circleville team include Johnny Noggle, Ted and Bob Moon, John Woods and Frank Geib, the latter two each playing nine holes.

WEIDNER KEEPS CROWN
COLUMBUS, April 28—Billy Weidner today still had his light heavyweight wrestling crown after downing Jimmy Mitchell, known as the Black Panther of Louisville, Ky., in 33 minutes. Weidner was in bad shape when Mitchell slipped and fell on his back after colliding with the referee. Weidner jumped on him to score the pin.

HOME RUN HITTERS
Gehringer, Tigers; Heath, Indians; Mize, Cardinals; Suhr, Pirates; Simmons, Bees; Goodman, Reds.
Leaders: Greenberg, Tigers (3).

LUTHERAN WOMEN CONCLUDE CONFERENCE, ELECTING MRS. HENRY SCHUH

501 DELEGATES PARTICIPATE IN DAY'S PROGRAM

Several Outstanding Speeches Heard At Meeting In Trinity Church

Mrs. Henry F. Schuh, of Columbus, was elected president of the Columbus Group, Women's Missionary Federation, Thursday afternoon at the closing session of the eighth annual convention held in Trinity Lutheran church.

Mrs. Schuh, who had been vice president, succeeds Mrs. E. H. Winterhoff, of near Ashville. Other officers named were Mrs. August Zell, of Columbus, vice president; Mrs. Harry Boyer, of Columbus, secretary, and Mrs. William Wolfe, of Gahanna, treasurer.

Registration for the convention, which included sessions in the morning and afternoon, totalled 501. The morning session included largely the reports of various departments of the federation.

The afternoon session was opened by Mrs. Karl Herrmann, church organist, playing "In a Monastery Garden." Following the devotional service in charge of the Rev. George L. Troutman, the Junior choir of the church presented two numbers, "More Love to Thee," and "My God and I."

"The Effective Thankoffering," was the subject of an address by Mrs. Charles H. Osten, of Toledo. She reported that the thankoffering has increased every year and pointed out the vast amount of work accomplished in the mission fields with the funds. Since 1922 the thankoffering has provided a hospital in India, a parsonage building fund, schools and chapels for the Mexican mission fields, funds for a Negro mission in the South, and a hospital in New Guinea.

"We as Christians should rise above the ordinary level and help other nations," she said. "We cannot all be missionaries but we can help by supporting those who are."

"After all, Christianity has never been just spontaneous, but always carried through some human agency. No Americans should forget they became Christians by human effort. Our land was colonized for the purpose of religious freedom. We must become world wide citizens. What effects our neighbors or other countries also affects us."

Miss Vesta Stevens, Negro mission worker from Anniston, Ala., spoke on her experiences and work in the mission field. The federation sent Miss Stevens to college to prepare her for her work. She spent six years in Anniston. She explained in the mission field the women prepare food to take to church. They walk from five to six miles to church and hold an all day session, returning to their homes by moonlight. The Christian work was started in an old building that was unfit for a school. There were about 150 students the first year. Sunday school only was held. Gradually the number has increased to 500. A fund is being raised for a church in the field.

"Now" was the theme of an address by the Rev. F. M. Kuehle, superintendent of Wernle Children's home, Richmond, Ind. The three letters of the word, he explained, meant "Need of Wernle." This home is one of the several supported by the American Lutheran church. Operation of the home was described by the pastor.

ed. This attitude I do not understand.

"Danzig will never become Polish."

Instead of worrying about Europe, Hitler said, President Roosevelt should concern himself with America.

"We should not let this opportunity pass," he said, "without giving above all to the President of the United States an assurance regarding those territories which should after all give him most cause for apprehension—namely the United States and other states of the American continent."

"I strongly declare that all assertions being circulated referring in any way to an intended German attack or invasion on or in American territory are rank frauds and gross untruths."

Friendship Desired

Hitler also expressed a desire for friendship between Germany and Great Britain, but said this view was not shared in London.

"War against Germany is taken for granted in that country," he continued.

"I most profoundly regret such developments, for the only claim I have ever made and shall continue to make on England is that for return of our colonies."

"Roosevelt," the Fuehrer said, "directed to me a telegram of whose singular contents you are aware."

"Since the remainder of the world was informed beforehand through the radio and the press before I received this document, and since furthermore we received 'friendly' elucidation through many world publications and comments in the democratic world that it was a clever tactical piece of paper designed to saddle responsibility for the warlike measures of the plutocracies on countries governed by people (meaning totalitarian states) I decided to summon the Reichstag to give the chosen representatives of the German nation an opportunity to hear my answer first—as to its confirmation or rejection."

"In addition, I considered it opportune to adopt the procedure applied by Roosevelt to notify the world of my answer with our method."

"But I also want to take the opportunity to express the sentiments which motivate me in view of the tremendous events of historic March, and I can only express my deepest feeling through my humble thanks to a Providence which has selected me and permitted me to succeed in the position of a Fuehrer beloved by his people, to which I have arisen from a soldier unknown in the World War."

Providence Thanked

"Providence permitted me to find a way for liberating our people from their most dire plight without bloodshed, and to lead them forever upward."

"It permitted me to fulfill the only task of my life—that of raising the German people from defeat, freeing them from the most disgraceful chains of peace and from the most shameful dictation of all time."

"What others shattered by force I wanted to repair. This was the sole aim of my actions. I wanted to restore what others had destroyed before me."

Hitler sent the Reichstag into gales of boisterous laughter by his allusion to Roosevelt's "singular" message and proposed that the German parliament itself accept or reject it.

The counsellors of the British and French embassies were in the building to hear the address, but the representatives of Poland were absent. Raymond H. Geist, United States charge d'affaires, was among the diplomatic dignitaries on hand.

Stressing his "mission" in behalf of a war-impooverished Germany, the Fuehrer continued:

"I only want to repair what a devilish maliciousness and an inhuman lack of reason destroyed and despoiled."

"Therefore, I undertook no step which violated foreign rights, but merely restored the rights of Germany which were violated twenty-years ago.

"There is no territory within the greater German Reich today which did not belong here for ages past and which as such was associated with the Reich or under her sovereignty."

"The Reich existed not only in its present greatness but with many territories and provinces which have since been lost long before the American continent was even discovered and settled by white men."

"When 21 years ago the bloody world war ended, there was a fervent hope in millions of minds that peace, common sense and justice would reward the people who had suffered from the terrible scourge of conflict and make them forever happy."

All Not Guilty

"I say, regardless of the statements of historians, that all of the people were not guilty of this terrible tragedy, even if in some countries some politicians are still living who could be held responsible for this cruellest slaughter of all time, the great mass of fighting soldiers in all countries may perhaps be pitied but cannot be held responsible for those events."

"They (the people) all have a claim on peace for reasons of justice, but all of these millions were cheated of peace."

"Even for the victors, the effect of the peace treaties was disastrous. It was a misfortune created by the men who decided politics but who had not fought the war."

"Soldiers themselves did not know hatred, but the politicians who saved their own precious skins from the horror of war, suddenly turned into madmen and assaulted mankind."

"Hatred, maliciousness and lack of reason were the intellectual fathers of the Versailles treaty."

Assailing politicians as "stupid blockheads" who sought to destroy ancient frontiers, the Fuehrer continued:

Recalling that Germany had "weakly" trusted the promises of the peace treaties, Hitler painted a black picture of the consequences of Versailles and blamed the "dictators of peace" for world economic collapse and stagnation of trade and commerce.

Recovery Road Discussed
He then launched into a description of the road from chaos to reorganization and recovery followed by the German Reich.

"Versailles frustrated everything—including the rights of self-determination," he said.

"Nevertheless," he continued, "I have never left any doubts that revision of Versailles must have its limits somewhere. I have always expressed my opinions in the frankest way, not only for technical reasons but because of my innermost convictions."

"I have never left any doubt that this is my holy and solemn conviction. Therefore I made definite decisions regarding a number of possible dubious territories and have made them known, not only domestically but also to the outside world, that they have been ensured and respected."

(Editor's Note: This was interpreted as a reference to the questionnaire sent by Hitler to smaller European countries asking them whether they consider themselves menaced by Nazi Germany.)

Stressing his will for European peace, Hitler said:

"Of this conviction there has been no revision, nor will there ever be revision."

Saar Settles Question
"Return of the Saar territory settled once and for all the territorial problems between France and Germany. It is regrettable that French statesmen have not considered this attitude as a fact."

"I have never expressed or preached my convictions from a fear of France but as an exposition of Europe must come to peace somehow, and not foment constant insecurity and tension by keeping open the necessity of eternal revision."

"If this tension has come, it is not the fault of Germany, but the fault of international elements which systematically evoke tension to serve their capitalistic interests."

"I have made a number of binding declarations regarding several countries, and some of these countries could complain that Germany had made demands exceeding or contradicting them."

"None of the Scandinavian statesmen can claim that the Reich government or German public opinion ever expected them to do anything incompatible with their sovereignty and integrity."

"I am happy that a number of European countries took occasion, following the Reich government's request, to express their intention of maintaining absolute neutrality on their part. This goes for Holland, Belgium, Switzerland and others."

"I have already mentioned France. I need not mention Italy, which is allied with us by ties of deepest and closest friendship, nor Hungary or Yugoslavia, which are happy to live in cordial friendship as neighbors."

No Doubt Felt

"On the other hand, I have never left any doubt from the beginning about my political activity. There were conditions constituting such a mean and gross violation of the rights of self-determination in our nation that we never accept them."

"There is no line in any speech ever made by me in which I have assumed any other attitude toward the previously-mentioned nations than I have just re-stated in the same way. There is no line in any speech I have ever made which expressed anything different with regard to other cases that has not been confirmed by practical action."

Reviewing the absorption of Austria, the Fuehrer said he had always intended to join his native land with Germany.

"This idea was never abandoned, day or night," he said. "It would have been a sin against fate had I become a traitor to this idea of bringing Austria and my German people back home to the Reich."

"In so doing, I wiped out the most shameful page of Versailles and restored to seven million Germans the right of self-determination and relieved them from democratic oppression."

Reviewing his establishment of a "protectorate" over Bohemia and Moravia, Hitler asserted that both originally belonged to Germany. He paid tribute to the Czech people for their "diligent patriotism and industriousness" and pointed out that in the past Czechs and Germans had each respected one another.

He assailed the "peace-makers" of Versailles who claimed for themselves the distinction of having allotted the Czech people the special role of anti-German vassal.

"This role," he said, "meant nothing but prevention of consolidation of central Europe as a bridge for Bolshevik aggression throughout Europe and for the activities of the mercenary European democracies against Germany."

Explains Czech Grab

Declaring that Czechoslovakia constituted a jumping off place for military action against Germany, particularly in an aerial sense, Hitler said:

"If Germany decided to annihilate this landing ground for hostile bombers, it did so not out of hatred for the Czech peoples."

"If the Democratic midwives who helped Czechoslovakia to its birth had succeeded in their aims, the German Reich certainly would have not been annihilated but it might have suffered severely. The Czech people, however, would have sustained a much more terrific catastrophe."

"I am happy that we succeeded in avoiding this central European cataclysm, thanks to our own moderation and thanks to the common sense of the Czech people, although much to the annoyance of democratic nations."

Hitler explicitly assured the Czechs that they will be given an opportunity to develop their own culture. Reviewing the history of Czech annexation, he said:

"I was ready at all times to attempt a peaceful development with patience and if necessary to continue this for a long time to come. But it was this peaceful solution which was a thorn in the sides of democratic agitators."

"They hate us Germans with the intensity of an annihilator. The western European peace mongers have not been concerned with working for peace but with the cause of bloodshed. They have set nations one against the other, and have caused still more blood to flow."

"According to their view, there remained only two alternatives for Germany, either to accept Czech mobilization with a disgraceful blow to her prestige or to settle accounts with Czechoslovakia by a bloody war, possibly mobilizing the nations of western Europe."

"At this juncture I ordered construction of western fortifications. They are practically completed at the present moment and are being enlarged by a new line outside Aachen (Aix-La-Chapelle) and Saarbrücken."

All Ready For Defense

"These are all very largely ready for defense. In view of these greatest fortifications ever constructed by the German nation, we may feel sure that no power in the world will ever succeed in breaking through."

"If the cry 'never another Munich' is raised today, this simply confirms the fact that a peaceful solution of affairs appears to be the most fateful thing that could occur in the eyes of the war-mongers. They are sorry that no blood has been shed—not their blood, of course, for these agitators are never found where a shot is fired, only where money is made."

"The blood is that of many nameless soldiers . . . Without Munich, that is to say without the interference of the countries of western Europe, solution of the Czech problem, if it had ever grown acute, would have been the simplest thing in the world."

Pointing out that the Munich pact had resulted in return of the Sudetenland to the Reich, Hitler emphasized that some Central European problems still need solution, such as the separation of the Hungarian Slovak minorities.

"There still remains the question of guarantees," he said. "So far as Italy and Germany are concerned, the guarantee of this state (Hungary) from the first was made dependent upon the consent of all interested parties bordering on Czechoslovakia."

Referring to the various nations mentioned by Mr. Roosevelt in his peace appeal, the Fuehrer said:

"We should not let this opportunity pass without giving above all to the President of the United States an assurance regarding those territories which should after all give him most cause for apprehension—namely the United States and other states of the American continent."

"I strongly declare that all assertions being circulated referring in any way to an intended German attack or invasion on or in American territory are rank frauds and gross untruths."

"Apart from the fact that such assertions are far removed from military possibilities, they could have their origin only in stupid imagination."

"The German government is prepared to give each state named (by President Roosevelt) assurances of the sort desired on condition of absolute reciprocity, provided that the state wishes it itself and addresses to Germany a request for such assurance, together with appropriate proposals."

"As for duration of these agreements, Germany is willing to make terms with each individual state in accordance with the wishes of that state."

"All the nations mentioned by Roosevelt have replied negatively (to the German query as to whether they considered themselves menaced). Some of them did so strongly."

Already Settled
"Concerning a number of the states included in Roosevelt's list, this question can probably be regarded as settled from the very start, since we are either allied with them or at least united by close ties of friendship."

Recalling previous disarmament proposals, the Fuehrer said: "I do not want to be an obstacle in the way of disarmament discussions at which Roosevelt intends to be present. I ask Roosevelt, however, to appeal to others first in view of the practical experiences behind me."

Germany, he said, will never again enter a conference unarmed. Referring to President Roosevelt's proposal for revival of international trade, he said:

"It is an unbearable burden for world economic relations to suffer a boycott agitation which eliminates certain nations from the market."

"It is possible that some countries for ideological reasons believe that it would be a great service if you, Mr. Roosevelt, with your great influence, would remove the barriers to free world trade, beginning in the United States first of all."

"We would appreciate you, Mr. Roosevelt, as the successor to Woodrow Wilson, to devote yourself to redeeming Wilson's promises, on the basis of which Germany laid down her arms. Wilson solemnly pledged his word that the German colonial claims would receive just examination."

"It would be a noble act if Mr. Roosevelt would redeem Wilson's promises in the interests of improvement of the economic conditions of the world."

Voluntary restriction of German naval armaments, the Fuehrer said, was based upon the sole conviction that war between Germany and England would never again be possible.

"I wish this conviction were alive in me today," he declared. "However, I am now compelled to state that the policy of England—both official and unofficial—leaves no doubt that such a conviction is no longer shared by London. On the contrary, the opinion certainly prevails that no matter what the conflict in which Germany might some day be entangled, Britain will always take sides against her."

"War against Germany is taken for granted in that country. I most profoundly regret such developments, for the only claim that I have ever made and shall continue to make on England is that for return of our colonies."

"I most profoundly regret such developments, for the only claim I have ever made and shall continue to make on England is that for return of our colonies."

"Roosevelt," the Fuehrer said, "directed to me a telegram of whose singular contents you are aware."

"Since the remainder of the world was informed beforehand through the radio and the press before I received this document, and since furthermore we received 'friendly' elucidation through many world publications and comments in the democratic world that it was a clever tactical piece of paper designed to saddle responsibility for the warlike measures of the plutocracies on countries governed by people (meaning totalitarian states) I decided to summon the Reichstag to give the chosen representatives of the German nation an opportunity to hear my answer first—as to its confirmation or rejection."

"In addition, I considered it opportune to apply the procedure applied by Roosevelt to notify the world of my answer with our method."

"But I also want to take the opportunity to express the sentiments which motivate me in view of the tremendous events of historic March, and I can only express my deepest feeling through my humble thanks to a Providence which has selected me and permitted me to succeed in the position of a Fuehrer beloved by his people, to which I have arisen from a soldier unknown in the World War."

Providence Permitted
"Providence permitted me to find a way for liberating our people from their most dire plight without bloodshed, and to lead them forever upward."

"It permitted me to fulfill the only task of my life—that of raising the German people from defeat, freeing them from the most disgraceful chains of peace and from the most shameful dictation of all time."

"What others shattered by force I wanted to repair. This was the sole aim of my actions. I wanted to restore what others had destroyed before me."

Hitler sent the Reichstag into gales of boisterous laughter by his allusion to Roosevelt's "singular" message and proposed that the German parliament itself accept or reject it.

The counsellors of the British and French embassies were in the building to hear the address, but the representatives of Poland were absent. Raymond H. Geist, United States charge d'affaires, was among the diplomatic dignitaries on hand.

Stressing his "mission" in behalf of a war-impooverished Germany, the Fuehrer continued:

"I only want to repair what a devilish maliciousness and an inhuman lack of reason destroyed and despoiled."

"Therefore, I undertook no step

which violated foreign rights, but merely restored the rights of Germany which were violated twenty-years ago.

"There is no territory within the greater German Reich today which did not belong here for ages past and which as such was associated with the Reich or under her sovereignty."

"The Reich existed not only in its present greatness but with many territories and provinces which have since been lost long before the American continent was even discovered and settled by white men."

"When 21 years ago the bloody world war ended, there was a fervent hope in millions of minds that peace, common sense and justice would reward the people who had suffered from the terrible scourge of conflict and make them forever happy."

All Not Guilty

"I say, regardless of the statements of historians, that all of the people were not guilty of this terrible tragedy, even if in some countries some politicians are still living who could be held responsible for this cruellest slaughter of all time, the great mass of fighting soldiers in all countries may perhaps be pitied but cannot be held responsible for those events."

"They (the people) all have a claim on peace for reasons of justice, but all of these millions were cheated of peace."

"Even for the victors, the effect of the peace treaties was disastrous. It was a misfortune created by the men who decided politics but who had not fought the war."

"Soldiers themselves did not know hatred, but the politicians who saved their own precious skins from the horror of war, suddenly turned into madmen and assaulted mankind."

"Hatred, maliciousness and lack of reason were the intellectual fathers of the Versailles treaty."

Assailing politicians as "stupid blockheads" who sought to destroy ancient frontiers, the Fuehrer continued:

Recalling that Germany had "weakly" trusted the promises of the peace treaties, Hitler painted a black picture of the consequences of Versailles and blamed the "dictators of peace" for world economic collapse and stagnation of trade and commerce.

Recovery Road Discussed
He then launched into a description of the road from chaos to reorganization and recovery followed by the German Reich.

"Versailles frustrated everything—including the rights of self-determination," he said.

"Nevertheless," he continued, "I have never left any doubts that revision of Versailles must have its limits somewhere. I have always expressed my opinions in the frankest way, not only for technical reasons but because of my innermost convictions."

"I have never left any doubt that national interests, wherever the higher interests of European cooperation are at stake, must be subordinated if necessary."

"I have never left doubt that this is my holy and solemn conviction. Therefore I made definite decisions regarding a number of possible dubious territories and have made them known, not only domestically but also to the outside world, that they have been ensured and respected."

(Editor's Note: This was interpreted as a reference to the questionnaire sent by Hitler to smaller European countries asking them whether they consider themselves menaced by Nazi Germany.)

Stressing his will for European peace, Hitler said:

"Of this conviction there has been no revision, nor will there ever be revision."

Saar Settles Question
"Return of the Saar territory settled once and for all the territorial problems between France and Germany. It is regrettable that French statesmen have not considered this attitude as a fact."

"I have never expressed or preached my convictions from a fear of France but as an exposition that Europe must come to peace somehow, and not foment constant insecurity and tension by keeping open the necessity of eternal revision."

"If this tension has come, it is not the fault of Germany, but the fault of international elements which systematically evoke tension to serve their capitalistic interests."

"I have made a number of binding declarations regarding several countries, and some of these countries could complain that Germany had made demands exceeding or contradicting them."

"None of the Scandinavian statesmen can claim that the Reich government or German public opinion ever expected them to do anything incompatible with their sovereignty and integrity."

"I am happy that a number of European countries took occasion, following the Reich government's request, to express their intention of maintaining absolute neutrality on their part. This goes for Holland, Belgium, Switzerland and others."

"I have already mentioned France. I need not mention Italy, which is allied with us by ties of deepest and closest friendship, nor Hungary or Yugoslavia, which are happy to live in cordial friendship as neighbors."

No Doubt Felt

"On the other hand, I have never left any doubt from the beginning about my political activity. There were conditions constituting such a mean and gross violation of the rights of self-determination in our nation that we never accept them."

"There is no line in any speech ever made by me in which I have assumed any other attitude toward the previously mentioned nations than I have just re-stated in the same way. There is no line in any speech I have ever made which expressed anything different with regard to other cases that has not been confirmed by practical action."

Reviewing the absorption of Austria, the Fuehrer said he had always intended to join his native land with Germany.

"This idea was never abandoned, day or night," he said. "It would have been a sin against fate had I become a traitor to this idea of bringing Austria and my German people back home to the Reich."

"In so doing, I wiped out the most shameful page of Versailles and restored to seven million Germans the right of self-determination and relieved them from democratic oppression."

Reviewing his establishment of a "protectorate" over Bohemia and Moravia, Hitler asserted that both originally belonged to Germany. He paid tribute to the Czech people for their "diligent patriotism and industriousness" and pointed out that in the past Czechs and Germans had each respected one another.

He assailed the "peace-makers" of Versailles who claimed for themselves the distinction of having allotted the Czech people the special role of anti-German vassal.

"This role," he said, "meant nothing but prevention of consolidation of central Europe as a bridge for Bolshevik aggression throughout Europe and for the activities of the mercenary European democracies against Germany."

Explains Czech Grab

Declaring that Czechoslovakia constituted a jumping off place for military action against Germany, particularly in an aerial sense, Hitler said:

"If Germany decided to annihilate this landing ground for hostile bombers, it did so not out of hatred for the Czech people."

"If the Democratic midwives who helped Czechoslovakia to its birth had succeeded in their aims, the German Reich certainly would have not been annihilated but it might have suffered severely. The Czech people, however, would have sustained a much more terrific catastrophe."

"I am happy that we succeeded in avoiding this central European cataclysm, thanks to our own moderation and thanks to the common sense of the Czech people, although much to the annoyance of democratic nations."

Hitler explicitly assured the Czechs that they will be given an opportunity to develop their own culture. Reviewing the history of Czech annexation, he said:

"I was ready at all times to attempt a peaceful development with patience and if necessary to continue this for a long time to come. But it was this peaceful solution which was a thorn in the sides of democratic agitators."

"They hate us Germans with the intensity of an annihilator. The western European peace mongers have not been concerned with working for peace but with the cause of bloodshed. They have set nations one against the other, and have caused still more blood to flow."

"According to their view, there remained only two alternatives for Germany, either to accept Czech mobilization with a disgraceful blow to her prestige or to settle accounts with Czechoslovakia by a bloody war, possibly mobilizing the nations of western Europe."

"At this juncture I ordered construction of western fortifications. They are practically completed at the present moment and are being enlarged by a new line outside Aachen (Aix-La-Chapelle) and Saarbrücken."

All Ready For Defense

"These are all very largely ready for defense. In view of these greatest fortifications ever constructed by the German nation, we may feel sure that no power in the world will ever succeed in breaking through."

"If the cry 'never another Munich' is raised today, this simply confirms the fact that a peaceful solution of affairs appears to be the most fateful thing that could occur in the eyes of the war-mongers. They are sorry that no blood has been shed—not their blood, of course, for these agitators are never found where a shot is fired, only where money is made."

"The blood is that of many nameless soldiers . . ."

"Without Munich, that is to say without the interference of the countries of western Europe, solution of the Czech problem, if it had ever grown acute, would have been the simplest thing in the world."

Pointing out that the Munich pact had resulted in return of the Sudetenland to the Reich, Hitler emphasized that some Central European problems still need solution, such as the separation of the Hungarian Slovak minorities.

"There still remains the question of guarantees," he said. "So far as Italy and Germany are concerned, the guarantee of this state (Hungary) from the first was made dependent upon the consent of all interested parties bordering on Czechoslovakia."

Referring to the various nations mentioned by Mr. Roosevelt in his peace appeal, the Fuehrer said:

"We should not let this opportunity pass without giving above all to the President of the United States an assurance regarding those territories which should after all give him most cause for apprehension—namely the United States and other states of the American continent."

"I strongly declare that all assertions being circulated referring in any way to an intended German attack or invasion on or in American territory are rank frauds and gross untruths."

"Apart from the fact that such assertions are far removed from military possibilities, they could have their origin only in stupid imagination."

"The German government is prepared to give each state named (by President Roosevelt) assurances of the sort desired on condition of absolute reciprocity, provided that the state wishes itself and addresses to Germany a request for such assurance, together with appropriate proposals."

"As for duration of these agreements, Germany is willing to make terms with each individual state in accordance with the wishes of that state."

"All the nations mentioned by Roosevelt have replied negatively (to the German query as to whether they considered themselves menaced). Some of them did so strongly."

Already Settled

"Concerning a number of the states included in Roosevelt's list, this question can probably be regarded as settled from the very start, since we are either allied with them or at least united by close ties of friendship."

Recalling previous disarmament proposals, the Fuehrer said: "I do not want to be an obstacle in the way of disarmament discussions at which Roosevelt intends to be present. I ask Roosevelt, however, to appeal to others first in view of the practical experiences behind me."

Germany, he said, will never again enter a conference unarmed. Referring to President Roosevelt's proposal for revival of international trade, he said:

"It is an unbearable burden for world economic relations to suffer a boycott agitation which eliminates certain nations from the market."

"It is possible that some countries for ideological reasons believe that it would be a great service if you, Mr. Roosevelt, with your great influence, would remove the barriers to free world trade, beginning in the United States first of all."

"We would appreciate you, Mr. Roosevelt, as the successor to Woodrow Wilson, to devote yourself to redeeming Wilson's promises, on the basis of which Germany laid down her arms. Wilson solemnly pledged his word that the German colonial claims would receive just examination."

"It would be a noble act if Mr. Roosevelt would redeem Wilson's promises in the interests of improvement of the economic conditions of the world."

Voluntary restriction of German naval armaments, the Fuehrer said, was based upon the sole conviction that war between Germany and England would never again be possible.

"I wish this conviction were alive in me today," he declared. "However, I am now compelled to state that the policy of England—both official and unofficial—leaves no doubt that such a conviction is no longer shared by London. On the contrary, the opinion certainly prevails that no matter what the conflict in which Germany might some day be entangled, Britain will always take sides against her."

"War against Germany is taken for granted in that country. I most profoundly regret such developments, for the only claim that I have ever made and shall continue to make on England is that for return of our colonies."

MOTORIST FINED $5

Grover Lake, of Columbus, paid a fine of $5 and costs in Squire B. T. Hedges' court, Thursday, on a charge of intoxication. Lake's car was damaged Wednesday night when it went over a bank on the Doute 22 improvement, west of Circleville. The car nosed over one of the old concrete spillways. It did not overturn. Deputy Sheriff Robert Adkins said Lake contended he was not driving at the time of the mishap.
